

HARMONY REIGNS AT THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

"AMERICANISM AND PEACE, PREPAREDNESS AND PROSPERITY," USED AS THE KEYNOTE

Coliseum, St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—With the keynote of "Americanism and Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity," the Democratic National Convention began its first session today shortly after noon with not a single element in sight to disturb the harmonious re-nomination of President Wilson and Vice President Marshall.

When National Chairman McCombs called the convention to order twelve thousand delegates, alternates and spectators packed the big Coliseum to the roof. Members of the National Committee, members of President Wilson's cabinet and party leaders from all over the country had places on the platform. Plaster medallions of Washington, Jackson, Jefferson and Cleveland looked down upon the delegates from the decorations which consisted of nothing but American flags, the only picture of President Wilson hung in front of the speaker's desk inscribed "America First."

Vice Presidential booms, wilted by President Wilson's direct word that he desired the re-nomination of Vice President Marshall, were brought to the convention hall but only as a favorite son compliment.

When National Chairman McCombs had called the convention to order, the next business was the reading of the call by Secretary J. Bruce Kemper.

Former Governor Glynn, of New York, was next with the keynote speech.

Down under the speakers' stand direct telephone and telegraph wires to the White House carried momentary reports of the proceedings in the hall. Prospects of a fight in the convention had gone glimmering over night with William J. Bryan's announcement that he did not propose to press certain planks before the resolutions committee and that he would make campaign speeches for the Democratic nominees.

"We have entered this hall as Democrats; let us deliberate as Americans," declared Mr. Glynn in sounding the keynote.

"It is the business of this convention representing every section of the United States, speaking for every racial strain in America to send forth a message to all the world that will leave no room for doubt."

Reviewing President Wilson's conduct of foreign affairs, he declared the president had stood with Washington, Adams and Grant who had preserved peace with honor.

"For vain glory or sacrifice purposes," he declared, "others may cry for a party of blood and iron but the president has acted on the belief that the leader of a nation who plunges his people into an unnecessary war, like Pontius Pilate, vainly washes his hands of innocent blood, while the earth quakes and the heavens are darkened and thousands give up the ghost."

"If Washington was right, if Jefferson was right, if Hamilton was right, the president is right today," he declared.

Had To Hurry To Finish Coliseum

Coliseum, St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—At 11:20 o'clock, forty minutes before the time for the convention was to be called to order there were not more than twenty delegates on the floor, only a few officials on the platform and the galleries were filling slowly. There was little excitement. Carpenters were beating a tattoo in finishing touches upon the hall as the delegates filed in.

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way is so dreadfully immune to poison that she's actually started to go on a picnic.

The only picture of President Wilson was hung on the speaker's stand. It was a small reproduction of a photograph on a shield with a background of the flag and bore the inscription "America First."

The Coliseum filled rapidly just before noon, some delay in opening the doors to spectators preventing an earlier influx. The bands accompanied the delegation to the hall but were not allowed to march into the hall. There was little excitement or cheering during the half hour preceding the opening of the convention.

A Shirt Sleeve, Coatless Crowd. Because of the heat under the glaring skylight many of the delegates soon removed their coats, and it promised to become a coatless crowd. Texas delegation tossed miniature souvenir bales of cotton in the galleries.

The official band began the opening concert in accompaniment to a male quartette that sang a new song about America through their megaphones. The song brought the first applause of the day.

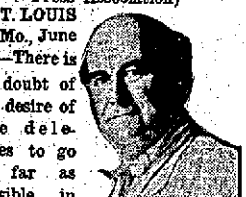

McCombs Calls Convention To Order

Chairman McCombs took his place at his desk at 12:30 amid cheers and applause.

A few thumps of his gavel on a wooden sounding board, quickly secured order and he cried, "The (Continued On Page Eight)

DELEGATES DESIRE TO MAKE DEMOCRATIC POSITION ATTRACTIVE TO PROGRESSIVES

(By W. J. Bryan)
(Copyright 1916 by the Central Press Association)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—There is no doubt of the desire of the delegates to go as far as possible in the direction of making the Democratic position attractive to the homeless Progressives, and the President's attitude on domestic problems makes the task an easy one. Colonel Roosevelt's attack upon the President was confined to the international questions and the criticisms of the President's course to which the Progressive convention gave endorsement will be discarded along with Mr. Roosevelt. In leaving the Progressive party the Colonel carried with him all that was Roosevelt's and left all that was valuable in the way of reform, principles and policies. The Democratic convention can please the Progressives in three ways.

First—It can tell the truth about the Republican party's subservience to predatory wealth. The Republican organization is in the hands of the men who are responsible for spreading a Belshazzar's feast for the exploiters of the country. If it ever showed any symptoms of responding to the aroused conscience of a nation, it has gone back to its "wallow in the mire." Its initiative is now extended to every special interest and the invitation will call to the Republican banner all the hosts of Wall Street. They were once mighty, even to the point of being irresistible, but their methods have been exposed and their support, when understood, is a liability rather than an asset. The President has alienated the money powers by the firm stand which he took on currency reform, anti-trust legislation and on the tariff question, and he still further offended so called big business by the appointment of Brandeis to the Supreme Bench. He cannot count upon the support of any of "the interests," but just in proportion as he has alienated them, he has won the admiration of the rank and file of the Progressive voters.

Second—The Progressives are very much interested in proposed legislation carrying out their program for the establishment of social justice. Here, too, the President is in sympathy with their desires, and he is supported in this attitude by the Democratic party. (Continued on Page Eight)

PRESIDENT WALKS IN PREPAREDNESS PARADE HELD AT NATION'S CAPITAL

High Lights of Democratic Keynote Address

If in the great crisis that now confronts the nation, the American people falter, * * * their apostasy will be visited upon the descendants of their children's children.

Today the republic faces a third crisis no less momentous than that of 1776 or 1860.

What the people of the United States must determine through suffrage is whether the course the country has pursued through this crucial period is to be continued.

* * * The policy of neutrality is as truly American as the American flag.

The president stands today where stood the men who made America and who saved America.

If Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton and Lincoln were right, then the president of the United States is right today.

"To maintain our national honor by peace if we can, by war if we must," is the motto of the president of the United States.

This administration has done more for our army and navy than any administration in our history.

Today the prosperity which the nation enjoys bears witness that Democracy has kept faith.

The administration has devoted itself to the stimulation of American industry, agriculture and trade.

Under the present administration the United States has enjoyed a wonderful era of good business.

CHARGE IRREGULARITIES

Wheeling, W. Va., June 14.—With changes in the total compiled from only 300 votes separating A. A. Lilly and Ira E. Robinson, candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor, the contest has already found its way into the courts and prospects today were that further legal action would be taken. The first general primary election was held throughout the state June 6, but the count was slow and charges of fraud were frequently heard. Both candidates sought a recount in a number of counties, and as these figures are reported,

TO NOMINATE WILSON

JOHN W. WESCOTT

Judge John Wescott, of New Jersey, who placed Wilson's name before the Democratic convention in Baltimore, four years ago, will perform the same duty in St. Louis.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE TO GAIN

Petrograd, June 14.—(Via London)—In their advance upon Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, the Russians have occupied the village of Sniatyn, twenty miles northwest of the city, the war office announced today.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE ADVANCE

London, June 14.—Reports from the Eastern front indicate that the Russians are making substantial progress in their efforts to capture Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina. A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd says the Russians have interrupted the Austrian communications by cutting the railway running north from Czernowitz. Heavy fighting is in progress in the eastern, southeastern and northern outskirts of the city.

CRISIS IS REACHED IN RAILWAY CONFERENCE

New York, June 14.—Forced by W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, into admitting that the demands of the 350,000 railroad men of the United States had been rejected, the railroad managers at the conference called here to avert a general strike today, declared it was up to the men to decide whether they should continue the conference. The union leaders, after stating that the railroad's counter-proposition was not acceptable, decided to continue the conference but indicated they expected it to end late today or tomorrow.

RUSSIANS ARE ATTACKING HINDENBURG TROOP FRONT

Berlin, June 14.—(via London)—The Russian offensive which has been directed against the Southern portion of the Eastern front broke out yesterday against Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's forces, at a point about seventy-five miles north of Pskov. The Russians made several successive attacks with masses of infantry. The war office announcement of today says they were repulsed with heavy losses.

SUFFRAGISTS SCENT VICTORY AT ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—Victory for the suffragists in the Democratic National Convention today appeared so close that General Updegraff's well laid plans to keep silent her "marchers" in the walkless, talkless "Golden Lane" demonstration appeared likely to be shattered. The participants had promised their "general" faithfully, that during the two hours of the display they would not utter a sound, and then in the closing hours of preparation, a tentative draft of a suffrage platform plank tendered them by Democratic leaders put them in a shouting mood.

AUSTRIANS REPULSED

Rome, June 14.—Austrian attacks along the line of the Posina in the Southern Tyrol, made after intensive artillery preparation on Monday night were everywhere repulsed by the Italians, the war office announced today.

ARTILLERY IS ACTIVE

Paris, June 14.—A violent artillery engagement took place last night in the vicinity of Vaux, on the Verdun front. There were no infantry action before Verdun.

Washington, D. C., June 14.—Efforts to insert a plank in the Democratic platform favoring a law to prohibit Federal judges from leaving the bench to accept elective offices will not be countenanced by President Wilson. Administration officials let it be known today that the president had sent word to St. Louis that he did not want any petty politics played.

Billy Battly

Of course I'm awfully glad any junior editor has been named to serve on th' vice-presidential surprise party but I'll be doggoned if I think it's fair t' th' vice-presidential candidate t' conceal from him th' fact that he's been nominated till somebody from th' convention goes and tells him. I'd thank 'em t' wire th' fact at once if it wuz me. Here's for tomorrow.

Ohio—Probably thunder showers this afternoon and tonight. Thursday partly cloudy. Kentucky and West Virginia—Probably thunder showers tonight and Thursday.

Journeyman Barbers Seem To Have Won

The Journeyman Barbers' Union appears to have scored a victory in the present controversy with the boss barbers regarding a change in closing hours.

Although a majority of the bosses at a meeting held at Will Cornute's shop Monday night registered protest against closing their shops at 7 p. m. through the week and at 10 p. m. on Saturday as voted for by the journeymen last Wednesday they seemed to have suddenly contracted "cold feet" for practically all of them closed their places Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Some of the bosses seemed greatly incensed over the action of the journeymen and threatened reprisals but a division in their own ranks due largely to a fear of some of losing their union cards caused them to submit. The shops heretofore have been closing at 7 o'clock only on Mondays and Thursdays and at 8 o'clock on other nights excepting Saturday nights the closing hour for which has been 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Carr Brock and Miss Muriel Stewart, delightfully entertained Mrs. David Evans and Mrs. E. E. Haegard's Sunday School classes with a lawn party at Mrs. Brock's home on Jackson street, Tuesday evening. The house and yard were beautifully decorated in red roses and Japanese lanterns. There were 80 present.

The evening was spent in games and contests. Harry Porter, of Portsmouth, gave several interesting readings which were very much enjoyed. Refreshments of pink and white ice cream and cake were served, and at a late hour the guests departed.

Misses Ruth Resinger, Mildred Neff, Ethel Clausen and Marie McCall were entertained at the home of Miss Helen Scott, Tuesday evening.

Martha Creamer, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. George Creamer, is suffering with tonsillitis.

The M. M. Kensington Club met at the home of Miss Laura Brant of Bloom street, Tuesday afternoon. Most of the members were present. The afternoon was spent in needlework and social chat. The house was beautifully decorated in yellow and white. Refreshments of yellow and white ice cream and cake and fruit punch were served. The favors were small hand painted baskets with hearts of candy. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Ella Taylor of Third street with Miss Myrtle Cunningham as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reinhardt of Center street spent Sunday with their brother, Nichols Reinhardt of Portsmouth.

Mrs. Zora Todd and daughter, Bess and their guest, Miss Charlotte Ridenour of Ironton, were visitors to Portsmouth, Wednesday.

Mrs. Hattie Ellison and daughter, Sarah of Portsmouth, were the guests of Mrs. James McCall, Wednesday.

Mrs. Martin Chandler of Chillicothe, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. T. J. Burke of Jackson street.

STOMACH ILLS ENDANGER RACE

Organ Called Hotbed of Disease by Medical Authorities.

It is generally conceded by medical authorities that considerably over one-half of the population of the United States is suffering from one ailment or another, and of this great number of suffering people the major portion are victims of stomach trouble.

Through many years of practical experiments, with the past medical knowledge of European chemists at his disposal, Joseph Von Trimbach, the noted chemist and health authority, discovered the formula now known as Tanlac. The ingredients for this Master Medicine were gathered from the remotest parts of the world. Tanlac is purely a vegetable product and is compounded from roots, herbs, flowers and barks which have been tested for their therapeutic properties. He now firmly believes he has found the solution to the grave problem, which has become an important one for the present and future of our great race.

That there is no question as to the merit of Tanlac is demonstrated by the thousands of testimonials to the benefits derived from this wonderful reconstructive tonic which are voluntarily given by men and women in all walks of life and from every section.

"Modern ills," the title under which stomach troubles and its complications are now unusually classed, is ruining the lives of a vast army of people every year.

Catarh, which begins in the head and extends through the throat to the stomach, is the usual form in which stomach trouble is contracted. The delicate mucous membrane lining of the stomach becomes coated from catarrhal secretions, and food cannot digest. Instead, it ferments, forming gases, and is the cause of intense pains in the stomach and abdomen after eating. Constipation usually follows and wrecks the entire nervous system.

The victim of stomach trouble becomes nervous, melancholy, has an irregular appetite, and attacks of headaches. Often the eyesight becomes affected in cases of stomach disorder. Relief can be found in Tanlac, the ideal reconstructive tonic, appetizer, invigorant and builder of torn down tissues.

Tanlac is being especially introduced in Portsmouth at Fisher & Streich's where the Tanlac Man explains its merits.

Born on Feb. 20.

There is one youth who will never in all probability have a real birthday. He was born in a leap year on the steamship Persia, which at the critical moment in that leap year was crossing the one hundred and eightieth meridian from Greenwich, where by convention the date changes. As the vessel was going from east to west, it became the duty of the captain to add a day to prevent the calendar being out of gear afterward, and in consequence the day after Feb. 29 was Feb. 30 on that boat. — London Standard.

Portsmouth Has A Candidate For State Prohibition Ticket

"From what I have learned in prohibition circles a full state ticket is to be placed in the field in Ohio when the Prohibition party gathers in Columbus July 5, 6 and 7 to hold their state convention in the Capital City."

O. C. Bridwell, a member of the executive committee of the local Prohibition organization, stated Wednesday.

"I am planning to attend this meeting and expect to be accompanied to Columbus by C. C. Coverston, of this city, who is also a member of the executive committee of the local Prohibition party. Failure on the part of the Progressive National convention at Chicago to place a strong prohibition plank in its platform will, I believe, result in a full ticket being placed in the field in Ohio this year."

Four years ago Mr. Bridwell, who is at the head of the Portsmouth College of Business, was a candidate for state treasurer on the Prohibition ticket.

Relative to the Prohibition state convention to be held in Columbus, the Cincinnati Enquirer Tuesday said:

"The Prohibitionists are sending out thousands of letters over the state urging Prohibitionists to come to the state convention here in automobiles. Delegates will not be elected to this year's convention, and instead it will take the form of a mass meeting. To date the following are being talked of as candidates for various state offices:

Governor, Prof. John H. Dickason, of Wooster College, who was the Prohibitionists' gubernatorial candidate two years ago; Dr. John A. Henderson, of Dayton, formerly a Prohibition candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Illinois; A. S. Watkins, of Van Wert.

Lieutenant Governor, Prof. W. R. McClesney, of Cedarville College, and Charles F. Bacon, Toledo manufacturer.

Secretary of State, M. A. Bryan, of Gallia; J. Leman Ford, of Youngstown; J. E. Foltz, of Akron, and Seymour M. Fox, of Fostoria.

State Treasurer, Addison Y. Reid, of Cincinnati, and C. C. Bridwell, of Portsmouth.

Auditor, W. W. Scott, of Bridgeport, and Prof. G. J. Graham, of Xenia.

Attorney-General, Frank M. McCurtney, of Columbus, and George H. Hawke, of Cincinnati.

Eugene N. Foss, former Governor of Massachusetts, will be the principal speaker at the convention. Other speakers will be Prohibitionist National Chairman Virgil G. Hinchaw, of Chicago; Sumner W. Haynes, of Indiana, who has been prohibition candidate for Governor of Indiana, and who has Indiana's support for the Prohibition Presidential nomination; Florence Sloan Hyde, of the Woman's National Prohibition Federation.

The Movies

House Peters and Barbara Tennant in "The Closed Road" at the Lyric Tonight.

One of the most fascinating and inspiring photoplays which has genuine dramatic triumph. Here is a feature that towers head and shoulders above the average from any point of view. Supremely dramatic, superb of photography, splendidly staged by a master-hand. The interest in the unusual and thrilling story never wanes. "The Devil's Toy" will be remembered as one of the most sensational, but impressive pictures shown this year.

At The Exhibit

"The Fifth Ace" is a two part Thanhouser drama that has a gripping interest. A picture of real life thrills and one that will make you want to see it the second time. Thanhouser stars play the leading roles.

"Topsy" is a Beauty comedy. A diverting number, which will bring smiles all the way through. It pictures the adventures of Prof. Doo Little, portrayed by Orval Humphrey, on a visit to the city to publish his book. He is forced to tip everyone along the route, much against his will.

"See America First" shows views of Tampa, Florida, its parks, driveways, municipal buildings, hotels, etc. The cigar industry, which furnishes a living for a large portion of Tampa's population, is also thoroughly explained and illustrated.

At The Arcana

"A Strange Inheritance" is No. 2 of the "Peg of the Ring" series. This continues the adventures of Peg, a daughter of the circus. Her father's second wife has conspired with a Hindoo accomplice to kidnap Peg and get her out of the way. Flip still has in his possession the letter left by Peg's mother, to be opened by the girl on her eighteenth birthday. The circus scenes are unique and some good turns are shown incidental to the story. Peg is kidnapped and Land, Jr., comes to the rescue. The installment closes with both at the mercy of the Hindoo and his gang.

"The Passing of Hell's Crown," two part drama, and "Just Yet, Not Quite" is a Joker comedy. "Animated Weekly No. 18" closes the bill.

At The Forrest

"Outwitted" is a three part Thanhouser drama, with "Lady" Wayne Arey and Hazel Kirk in the leading roles. This is an unusual drama that will hold your interest from the start. Be sure to see it. It is one of the best dramas turned out recently by the Thanhouser people. Three reels of tense drama that will hold your interest well. "A Baby Grand" is a screaming Vogue comedy full of laughter and one that is a sure killer for the blues. The head comedian persists in putting the varnish brush on something else other than the legs of a baby grand piano for which the varnish is intended.

At The Temple

"Houses of Glass" is a three part drama, one of the Pathe company's big features that never fail to please. Full of excitement and thrills. "Board Bill Dodgers" is a Starlight comedy featuring Henie and Louie. Louie's face is too familiar and his gait is cut off. They see chances for things to eat coming their way but after trouble of laughable nature they are put out into the street by the other boarders and the minions of the law put them behind bars, much to their satisfaction because they got something to eat. "Fatty's Funtal Fun" is an American comedy.

At The Strand

"The Sham Reality" is a three part Rex drama featuring Francis Ford and Grace Cunard. James Brooks is an actor. He moves his apartments while his wife is away. She comes home suddenly. The husband accidentally sends her a key to his actor friend's house and she is forced to have the laudably open her door. She goes to the actor's house and finds her husband making love to another woman. He swears it is only a rehearsal of a new play but she refuses to believe him. Laughable complications develop fast. "Animated Weekly No. 15" is a real of topical events that are right up to the minute.

Troop 12 Meeting

Troop 12 met last night at Trinity M. E. church. Mr. Kinsey presided over the meeting during the absence of Scoutmaster Guffey. Mr. Kinsey gave a talk on First Aid work and Arthur Vander-croose and Arthur Regel gave a talk on "Second Class Work." The boys made arrangements to hike to Lucasville on Thursday for the conference.

Troop 13 Meeting

Troop 13 held a good meeting last night at Second Presbyterian church. The feature of the evening was a talk on the "Daily Good Turn" by Mr. C. W. Ridenour. Scoutmaster Cornell had charge of the meeting. Mr. Cornell and his boys will leave Portsmouth on the 3:20 train Thursday afternoon for the Lucasville conference.

Porter At the Conference

Mr. Harry Porter, well known comedian, has been engaged for an entertainment at the Lucasville conference. Mr. Porter will give some of his best monologues and imitations. He is quite a favorite among the Boy Scouts of Portsmouth and no doubt many boys will attend to hear him. He will appear on the program on Thursday evening.

Boy Scout League Games At Lucasville

All Boy Scout League games have been transferred from Portsmouth to Lucasville on Saturday. The Tigers will play the East End at 8:30 in the morning. The Knudall Avenues will play the Athletics at 4 in the afternoon. All players take notice.

W. C. MEANS BROTHERHOOD DELEGATE

W. C. Means was elected as delegate to attend the Ohio State German Evangelical Brotherhood Convention that is to be held in Columbus Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25, at the monthly meeting of the local German Evangelical Brotherhood Tuesday night. A number of other members of the local Brotherhood will also attend the Sunday session of the convention. Oscar Kah, chairman of the social committee, was ordered to prepare a "feast" for the next meeting.

Evangelist Edwards May Hold Services In Ironton

Ironton, June 14.—At the meeting of the Ministerial Union, held Tuesday morning, the coming campaign of Evangelist Harry Edwards, of Portsmouth, was brought up for discussion and it was the consensus of opinion that if the evangelist comes to Ironton he does so upon his own initiative and resources.

Ambiguus.
"Why did you spend so much money on your wife's funeral?" asked a man of a neighbor.
"Ah, sir," was the reply, "she would have done as much for me and more too, with pleasure."

NEW BOSTON

Mayor J. S. Davis, Members Charles Fidler, John Noel, Clerk Thomas O'Neal, Treasurer Joe Allen and Superintendent D. E. Ross of the Board of Education, left with V. T. Ritter Wednesday morning for Huntington, W. Va., to make an inspection of the river city's schools. Ritter and Bates, architects, invited the members to make the trip at the firm's expense. Thurman Emory, butcher, could not get anyone to fill his place. Thomas York is ill and President Frank Taylor missed the train.

No trace has been found of Bill Brown who passed worthless checks at Coburn's pharmacy and Hadrik's restaurant over a week ago.

Mrs. Genus Tibbs and sister, Mrs. W. I. Davis, have returned from Cincinnati where Mrs. Tibbs underwent nasal operation at the Dr. Holmes' hospital. Mrs. Tibbs has suffered with severe hemorrhages of the nose for sometime.

Gordon Wiseman was the name given by a young man arrested Tuesday evening by Deputy Iko Wells. A drunk charge was filed against him. Wednesday morning he put up $5 of his $6.36 for bond.

Mason Roberts, who was recently near death's door, the result of knife cuts received in a fight with Will Stewart, is able to be up a little each day.

Harlem Ramey, steel worker, is ill.

John Diemann, steel mill employee, who has been suffering with a broken rib, will be able to resume work Monday.

Elizabeth Taylor, daughter of Frank Taylor, of East Rhodes avenue, has returned from an extended trip through the south and east. She represented a baking power, firm in the east.

A called meeting of the board of health, Engineer Kinley and Solicitor McCall will be held in a few days to decide on sanitary sewer matters. Health Officer Martin Hall has served notices on a number of property owners to clean vaults but they say they will tap the sanitary sewer as soon as it is ready. A $5 rate will be charged for tapping the sewer.

Leonard Davis, son of Marshal Davis, has taken employment as apprentice plumber with the Schmidt-Watkins company.

S. Monroe and Sons, contractors, will move their steam shovel to Flood and Simpson's Highland addition in a few days and work of grading will start at once.

The street committee of council has failed to spread lime on the Stearnsville garbage dump and Health Officer Martin Hall is receiving a number of complaints daily.

Hollow Land.
The Dutch people occupy a country which contains 12,680 square miles—little more than one-tenth of the size of Great Britain and Ireland, the population being just over 8,000,000. Holland is not only flat, it is hollow; hence its name, "Hollowland." Along the canals the meadows are ten or twelve feet, sometimes more, beneath the water line. By the sea, at high tide, there may be a difference in the level of the soil and of the ocean of quite twenty-five feet or more.—London Globe.

ASTONISHING POWER OF IRON TO GIVE STRENGTH TO BROKEN DOWN NERVOUS PEOPLE

Physician Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate Folk 200 Per Cent In Two Weeks' Time In Many Instances.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, a well known specialist, who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, said: "It is not only the blood, but the blood itself on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the excessive large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue, and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of your food. Your system like corn through a mill which the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, indigestion or liver trouble; some are sleepless at night; others are dizzy and tired all day; some are fussy and irritable; some are skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or to use drugs which only whip up your fading vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what any one tells you, if you are not strong and well you own it to yourself to make the following test: How long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people, who were ailing all the time, double, and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of depression. There are other troubles in from ten to fourteen days simply by taking iron in the proper form, and that after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can take a great course of organic iron without being worried by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good, sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron—like thistle water, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated and for those reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the new form of organic iron, all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial."

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100,000 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength by Nuxated Iron. They will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Fisher & Streich's Pharmacy and all other druggists.

FLAG DAY

Today the nation pauses in its pursuit of industry to pay homage to the American flag. It is FLAG DAY. Now is the time of all times when the emblem of the United States is to be appreciated to its fullest extent. It is symbolic of peace and prosperity, at a time when the greater part of the world is torn by strife and human sacrifices and horrors. The stars and stripes represent Americanism itself. The flag is your flag. It is the constant guardian of your peace, happiness and prosperity. With true American spirit, salute it.

WHO MAKES THE NOMINATIONS?

"It doesn't make any difference what I think, say or do, the bosses determine the candidates, and we common people simply go through the formality of voting for them."

That is a remark we hear and you hear very frequently, and with many the saying by mere repetition has acquired the force of absolute truth. Whether you are willing to accept this extreme view of matters political in these United States in this enlightened day and age, depends largely upon whether you are an optimist or a pessimist.

Viewed through the darkened glasses of the pessimist the conventions at Chicago and St. Louis assemble, go through all the motions of nomination, adjourn and return home, from start to finish guided by the invisible, but not less firm on that account, hands of the "Big Bosses." For all the common people have to do with it they might as well be in the class of the fly, who, while hanging on to the wheel of a huge speeding Packard touring car, cried out to a passing friend, "See what a kick of a dust I am kicking up."

So much for the pessimist. But the optimist has a vision far different. He sees himself, plain John Smith, working day in and day out, doing his bit in the scheme of life in an honest, honorable way, "looking the whole world in the face," and airing his views when and where he pleases. He sees himself saying "Hughes is the man," or "Wilson is the man," or "Roosevelt is the man," and sees his little audience listening and digesting his remarks. He sees the chance words he has spoken in the mouths of two or three of his friends, who have held similar views, but had not expressed them before, and then with keen interest sees them go on in a never ending chain.

He sees other "John Smiths" all over the country starting out these little "Personal Opinion Waves" and sees them travel hither and yon, as man goes about his work.

And then he sees the precinct party worker with his ear attuned to catch the whisper of the voter. He sees this precinct worker unconsciously influenced by the outspoken views of the "John Smiths."

In turn he sees the ward worker, the district leaders, the state leaders in the same manner being unconsciously turned to the thought that "This man or that" is the logical candidate, or will be most acceptable to the people, the most likely to gain the votes necessary to land himself and his party in power.

The optimist sees these ideas traveling on to the national leaders, and when they sit down in the "Councils of the Mighty" to make the final decision, they make their selection from the men whom the "John Smiths" away back yonder in the field and the factory have helped to surround with the mystic halo of "An accepted leader."

And finally when the nominations are made the optimist feels "I now am only one of a hundred million, but I believe I had my share in shaping the currents of thought that resulted in the choosing of Hughes at Chicago or Wilson at St. Louis."

If we all took the views of the pessimist, that what we say or do makes no difference, don't you think in the end it would make a mighty lot of difference?

AEROPLANE AND AUTO TIME-KILLERS

The railroads and the telegraph and telephone wires are not the only agencies which are subjugating the continent and making it tributary to man's business and pleasures.

The new automobile record, which makes the cross-country time a matter of seven days and eleven hours and fifty-three minutes, tells another story of man's indifference to its barriers, while the proposed Aerial Derby, set for next September, will further render its vast distances of no avail, save as an example of the ease of conquest. To cover 3,741 miles in a little more than a week is not only a record of intrepid human endurance, but of the superiority of mechanical equipment of which all concerned may well be proud, even if the severity of the test shall be due in part to the badness of American highways representing American inefficiency at its very worst.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Reflections of the prosperity enjoyed by Seinto county can be seen in the returns of the tax assessors, which have recently been turned over to the board of revision. County Auditor S. D. Eckhart says that there will be a substantial gain in both real and personal property for this year. Last year, the total tax duplicate for the county was $56,323,660.

Some men will be so busy from now on until November saving the country by helping to elect Hughes or Wilson that they will forget such little trifles as making a living for their wives and children.

OLD GLORY'S BIRTHDAY

WANTS TO KEEP "LINE" ON CRIMINALS

Over seventy-five per cent of the criminals arraigned and convicted in the local courts are non-residents, says Prosecuting Attorney Joseph T. Micklethwait. With this fact in mind, he is now urging that measures be taken by the officials of the towns and cities along the Ohio river between Portsmouth and Huntington, W. Va., to eliminate the "dumping" habit. If the crime or misdemeanor is light and the prisoner is sentenced to a term in the jails, on being released, he is taken to the city limits and given a positive injunction never to return. By this act, the officials are sending a perhaps dangerous man from a district with ample police protection out into the country where little or no protection is afforded or to a neighboring city where he may operate with safety until apprehended.

The Prosecutor believes some understanding could be reached by the authorities of the various cities in this district whereby a line could be kept on the undesirables, and crime materially lessened. The idea seems well worth trying.

Our esteemed sister city of Akron will please take notice that the London Times refers to a recent accident in which a number of people lost their lives in the collapse of a restaurant building, as happening in "Akron, New York State." Such is fame.

A man never knows how worthless and "no account" generally he is until he tries to hang a screen door and it fails to work at the first trial to the complete satisfaction of his helpmate.

Now is the time to cut those weeds. Then keep them cut.

As the mercury gradually climbs toward the "ninety in the shade" point, the Tired Business Man brushes the dust off of bundles of literature which delineate the advantages of this resort or that bathing beach and diligently plans his vacation. This year, according to local railway officials, most of the vacationists will go East.

Some are wondering why some progressive newspaper did not engage the fearless "Teddy" to furnish graphic accounts of the Democratic National Convention from day to day.

Things are moving so fast nowadays that people who say it can't be done are being interrupted by some one doing it.

The most we can get out of it is that Italy would have fared better had she hesitated longer.

After all is said and done there is nothing that will sober 'em down like a question of win or lose.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

SOAP
We always call for round soap. That's all we know about soap. Some of it is round and some of it is square. Some of it floats and some of it sinks. We don't know which. Yesterday we came home with some new soap, and found it was mint flavored. It said so, audibly. And the word "MINT" was carved on the side of the soap. We know it was mint flavored.

Mint soap!
At what altercation will the world not stop!

Are we going to have to begin to choose our soap like we do our sodas? Is soap going to force itself into our lives?

We don't want to give any thought to soap. We just want to buy a ten-cent cake nonchalantly and come home and take a bath—privately.

But—mint soap!
Banana soap. Strawberry soap. Chocolate soap. Pineapple soap. Vanilla soap with nuts on it.

And next, they will be offering soap that not only floats, out don'ts fancifully. Soap that floats in circles, soap that floats in figure eights, soap that does the one-step.

Life is becoming complex and complex. Now we have got to wake up and become conscious of soap. Not only conscious, but careful.

But let us hope that the world will never forget the fundamental purpose of soap, the very excuse for its existence: Soap is to wash with!

The Wood-Rats Decide To Explore

"ALL THE SAME, Mrs. Willy Wood-rat," said Willy when she started to tease him for being frightened by the bat coming out of the old hollow sycamore tree, "you were frightened too. And you ran down that tree trunk to the ground every bit as fast as I did, so there!"

Mrs. Willy laughed and admitted that he was right, and of course that restored Willy's good humor at once. Nobody likes to be the only one who is afraid, you know.

"Well, then, let's not mind, seeing we both were frightened the same way," suggested Willy comfortably. "Let's talk about what we'll do now."

"Why talk about it?" asked Mrs. Willy. "Why not just go up there now?"

"Go up where?" asked Willy. "To the sycamore tree," replied Mrs. Willy, surprised that Willy should ask.

"But the bat—" began Willy. "Bother the bat!" laughed Mrs. Willy. "Didn't you see that the bat flew away? I think there is something wonderful in that hollow. Let's go now while the bats are both gone and explore."

Willy looked at her admiringly. "You're brave as I am," he said, as though that was the greatest possible praise.

Mrs. Willy only squeaked. She had her own opinion as to Willy's bravery!

"Then let's go," she said. And without waiting to see if Willy followed her, she slipped over to the sycamore tree and began climbing its white trunk.

Willy followed close at her heels. Up and up they went till they came again to the hollow from which the bat had darted out only a few minutes before.

Willy hesitated to go into the hole, but Mrs. Willy bravely ran straight in. She was not as clever as Willy about making plans, but once a plan was started she never was afraid of carrying it out.

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY.

O.O. MCINTYRE.

New York, June 14—Bonnie Glass, the dancer, has danced her way into the center of ten million exquisite dollars, which even in the days of war stock babies is considered considerable. Bonnie at one time was very much interested in Al Davis, who married Eugenia Kelly.

But when Davis married she did not mope around. She went merrily on her way and now she is the bride of Ben Ali Haggin, the artist, who recently came into a fortune of $10,000,000. He has built a castle at Roslyn, L. I., for her and they will live there.

Bonnie Glass in real life is Miss Helen Roche. She has appeared on the stage and the cabarets and is well known to the Broadway set. Haggin is the grandson of James B. Haggin, the famous turfman. He is divorced and he once got into a dispute with Charles Dana Gibson over his first wife.

It was at the time the "Gibson Girl" became popular. Mr. Gibson declared the real Gibson girl was his wife and was the most beautiful girl in the world. Mr. Haggin modestly disputed his claim and said that Mrs. Haggin was the most beautiful girl in the world, but in the meantime a big murder trial came along and the newspapers dropped the dispute.

Al Jolson has a new song he calls "You're a Dangerous Girl," which was written on a bet with Jimmy Monaco and Grant Clark. They were seated in the Claridge recently and Jolson complained that no person had been able to write a song that suited him.

Monaco and Clark declared they could do it—just like that. A wager of $100 was made. So in two weeks the song was delivered, all wrapped up and tied in a pink baby ribbon. Jolson tried it over once and the next night he was singing it at the Winter Garden and the next day the song writers got their check.

Here is a purr of it. Try it on your pianola:

"I love your eyes, I'm fond of your kissing, But my heart cries, 'Stop, look and listen.' You're wonderful, just marvelous, But you're a dog-goned dangerous girl!"

It might be said without the least fear of contradiction that the season is open at Coney Island. Two have been shot in a gang row on Surf avenue. This is the avenue that is selected by the gangsters to hold their little shooting affairs.

The selection is possibly made because the avenue is always crowded with innocent little children who may stop the bullets. For years the gang shootings at Coney have been a public scandal. The ring-leaders always get away.

When "Louie the Lump" was terrorizing peaceable merchants on the East Side and luring the squealers to Coney to shoot them up, the police always promised that he would be caught. He was finally and sent up the river to do his bit, but his followers remain on the job and break out just as much as usual.

An opium parlor over on Seventh avenue was opened last week amid great splendor. The banks were silk-lined and the attendants wore the finest silver and gold dragon robes that money could buy. It was supposed to be the last word in opium parlors, but it didn't last long. In fact it was only running 24 hours when the Narcotic Squad swooped down upon it.

The police, through a "stool pigeon," had known all the time the place was going to open, but they desired to catch them with the goods and succeeded. Three beautiful young girls were in the place, lulled to stupefaction by the process known as "hitting the pipe."

They said it was their first experience, but the police knew better. Also there was a man found in the place who was a few years back a well-known writer.

The Now

Put hand to the work of today With passion of joy and will, Tomorrow is as far away As a star above a hill.

Though the torrent to cross is wide And often stern in its flow, On the fairer other side The lilies and roses grow. Though the mountain is hard to climb And rises bold from its base Into the clear sublime— Its top for repose has place.

If the zeal for your work endures Your journey must upward be, If the land is no longer yours What matter!—accept the sea.

Your life is the life of your soul, And your soul shall never die, The now is your only goal— You cannot the now deny. —Boston Transcript

A Large Fraternity

"Yes," said the principal of the young ladies' seminary to the proud parent, "you ought to be very happy, my dear sir, to be the father of so large a family, all the members of which appear to be so devoted to one another."

"Large family! Devoted!" gasped the old gentleman, in amazement. "What on earth do you mean, mam?"

"Why, yes, indeed," said the principal, beaming through her glasses. "No fewer than eleven of Edith's brothers have been here this term to take her out, and she tells me she expects the tall one with the blue eyes again tomorrow."

Polite But Firm

Mrs. N. was giving instructions to her new servant. "Before removing the soup plate, Mary, always ask each person if he or she would like anymore."

"Very good, madam." Next day Mary, respectfully bowing to one of the guests, inquired: "Would the gentleman like some more soup?"

"Yes, please." "There isn't any left."—Chicago Journal.

Had Better Go To Night School

Said the waiter to a noisy and party in a hotel bedroom: "I've been sent to ask you to make less noise, gentlemen. The gentleman in the next room says he can't read."

"Tall him," was the reply of the host, "that he ought to be ashamed of himself. Why, I could read when I was five years old."

"Your friend had quite an ambitious promotion," "How's that?"

"Went up over a lot of other people's heads."—"Farming Business."

Fifty Would Be Enough

A clothing manufacturer received a call from a city salesman representing a notions, trimming and button house. The visitor began to spread out his samples.

"Put 'em up! Put 'em up!" said the manufacturer, in a tired business man tone. "I wouldn't care to look at nothing what you got."

"But, Mr. Cohen—" "S'aight! I won't look! Please go away!"

The salesman gazed at him admiringly. "Mr. Cohen," he said, "I only wish one thing—I wish I had fifty customers like you."

"I told you I didn't wish to see nothing what you got."

"Sure you did; and that's why I said I wish I had only fifty customers like you. Instead I've got two hundred!"—Saturday Evening Post.

DO YOUR EYES
TIRE, WATER OR BURN?

Must you close your eyes every now and then, or rub them for relief? These are symptoms of eye-strain of a nature fraught with serious consequences if not checked in time. If its progress is stayed before it becomes too pronounced, you can escape the need of wearing glasses whenever your eyes are not engaged in near work or reading. Our examination is so thorough and so accurate that we can tell what produced the strain, how your eyes act under strain, and exactly the character of lenses they need. See us about your eyes—NOW.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, June 14.—Coppers and a few specialties including American Beet Sugar were the outstanding features of today's professional market.

The noteworthy feature of today's early trading was the overnight decline of 26 points in Willys-Overland to 270, due to reports of a hitch in the consolidation of which that company was to form one of the chief constituents. Other motor issues were heavy in sympathy. Elsewhere changes inclined to moderate irregularity with a fair percentage of advances over losses. General Electric rose a point, with a similar gain for Westinghouse, which established the new record of 907½. New York, Chicago and St. Louis (Nickel Plate) featured the rails, advancing 1¼ and Coppers also were strong.

Willys-Overland made a further decline of two points before it rallied to 282 and other issues of the same class improved. The balance of the active list except Mexicans, which continued heavy, hardened under a demand for Reading and Steel. Inspiration led the coppers on rumors of an approaching dividend declaration. Beet sugar continued to climb, touching 92½. Rails as a whole were far less prominent than yesterday, and trading slackened visibly before midday. Bonds were steady.

Metal stocks and some specialties made further progress late with general strength in rails including Norfolk and Western, Canadian and Reading. The closing was irregular.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, June 14.—Prices developed in the wheat market today owing to the fact that Liverpool quotations were responsive to yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic.

The opening, which ranged from ¾ to ½ lower to a shade advance with July $1.04½ to ¾, and September at $1.05½ to $1.06½, was followed by slight net gains, but then a decided general sag.

The close was unsettled at 1¼ to 1½ and 1¾ not higher, with July at $1.02½ and ¾ and Sept. at $1.04½.

Unfavorable weather had improved cash demand gave firmness.

Miss Myrtle King, of McCall, Ky., was in the city shopping Wednesday.

Mrs. May Scott-Andrie and baby are here from Cincinnati on a visit to relatives and friends.

Members of the Daughters of Rebekah Kensington were entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. T. Hobstetter, at 1327 Hutchins street.

ALL WRONG

Look for the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

If it's weak kidneys you must set the kidneys working right. A Portsmouth resident tells you how.

O. W. Metzger, painter, 2233 Seventh St., Portsmouth, says: "I was chopping wood one day when a stitch took me in the small of my back and I had to be helped into the house. The kidney sections were scanty and burned in passage. They also contained sediment like brick-dust. I treated with six physicians and used many medicines with no results. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. That cure has lasted for over five years."

Adeline Patti in 1852.

Little Adeline Patti sang "Jenny Lind's Echo Song" and "Ab, Non Gunge".

She is only nine years old, but her cultivation is quite remarkable, and her voice, although pleasantly childlike in tone, is sweet and easily fills the great hall. It is a pity she is to sing in a theater. She will be stung by the frenzied desire of applause, which will do much to ruin her as an artist.

I never see a prodigy of this kind who is really interesting as little Patti is without remembering the young Mozart and that whom the gods love die young or grow old, faded and forgotten, which is worse. From a New York Letter, May 22, 1932.

FRAME UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING BILL FOR CONGRESS

Washington, June 14.—Details of a new universal military training and service bill to be presented to congress soon became known today. It provides that all male citizens shall enlist for six months' military training during the calendar year, in which they become eighteen years of age, and thereafter shall be discharged into the reserve.

In time of war these trained men might be called into active service by classes of years, the youngest first. The bill was drawn by Captain George Van Horn Moseley, of the general staff of the army, acting unofficially in behalf of national defense organizations.

The only exemptions from training under the proposed legislation would be young men physically or otherwise unfit, and members of permanent military or naval forces.

The president would be empowered to suspend the organization of any number of regular army units, and to assign their officers to the training camps. This would effect economies, it is assumed, by permanent reduction of the standing army, without reducing the force available in case of war.

A system of penalties would be provided for employers of men above the age of 18 who had not passed through the training. Persons not complying also would be barred from holding any position under the federal government, and in case they leave the country to escape service, would be required to fulfill the obligation on their return.

Unruly characters might be segregated and trained in special disciplinary organizations. Friends of the bill point out this might go far toward solving present problems of treating incorrigible youths.

The proposed measure contemplates establishment of a large number of training camps.

Want Lots Changed Back To "Acreage"

The Whitaker-Glessner Steel company filed an application in the court of common pleas Wednesday, seeking permission to vacate all of the portion of Idlewild addition, New Boston, which they recently purchased from Messrs. Alan Jordan and Leslie Turley. The application asks an order of court annulling all of the lots described in the deed and listing the real estate as acreage. Blair and Kimble represent the steel company.

What to Do for Itching Skins

There is usually immediate relief for skin itching, burning and disfigured by eczema, ringworm, or similar tormenting skin trouble, in a warm bath with resitol soap and a simple application of resitol ointment. The soothing, healing resitol medication stops itching at once, and soon clears away all traces of eruption, even in severe and stubborn cases, unless the trouble is due to some serious internal disorder.

You need never hesitate to use resitol. It is a doctor's prescription that has been used by other physicians for twenty years in the treatment of skin affections. It contains absolutely nothing that could injure the tenderest skin. Every druggist sells resitol ointment and resitol soap. Resitol Soap soothes tender skins and helps to make poor complexions clear, fresh and lovely, because it contains this resitol prescription.

Miller, American Baptist Publication representative, who is in charge of one of the Ohio Baptist Colportage wagons, will be ordained into the ministry at the First Baptist church Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, at a public service. All invited.

A committee consisting of pastors and laymen from the Ohio Baptist Association will conduct the examinations Thursday afternoon at two o'clock at the Baptist church. A special sermon will be delivered at the evening service. Among the out-of-town men present will be Rev. T. H. McAfee, of Mariou, O.; Rev. T. F. Carey, of Russell, Ky.; moderator of the Ohio Baptist Association, and Rev. J. J. Cleland, pastor of the First Baptist church of Ironton.

"Lincoln Republican Club" Is Colored Organization's Name

The political club recently formed by local colored citizens held a rearing meeting Tuesday evening in the Lewis band hall on Thirteenth street. A constitution was adopted and several new members were enrolled.

The name "Lincoln Republican Club" was chosen from a list of several suggested. It is expected to have two hundred members enrolled by November. A caucus of the entire county will be made. Some of the leading politicians of the North End are at the head of the new organization, which is due to come rapidly to the front.

Want Fence Built

J. A. Bode and G. E. Bode, of the firm of J. A. Bode and company, and Charley Dillon filed suit against Marion G. Perry, Frank Hollman and E. F. Keuhner, trustees of Bloom township, Wednesday, in the court of common pleas, asking that the defendants be required to build a fence along a portion of land which Charley Dillon recently transferred to J. A. Bode and company, as they agreed to do. The petition avers that the trustees agreed to see that the fence between the lands of Dillon and Frederick Hagen was kept in repair. The plaintiffs contend that the fence is a necessity, as the pastures are being used to graze sheep and hogs upon. Blair and Kimble represent the plaintiff.

YOUTH GIVEN A HOME REPAY'S KINDNESS BY MAKING ATTACK ON SEVEN YEAR OLD GIRL

Tranton, Ohio, June 14.—Lindsey Furel, 17 year old youth, when arraigned before Squire Up on the charge of attempting to rape 7 year old Mary Pyles, the daughter of Jessie Pyles, of this county, last Saturday evening, pleaded guilty, and was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond. In default of bond he was sent back to jail. The charge is a felony and carries with it a life sentence in the penitentiary if convicted.

Furel, who is said to be a moral degenerate, was taken from the Children's Home four years ago by Mr. Pyles and since that time he has made his home with the Pyles, being treated as one of the family. Saturday he attacked little Mary, but was unable to accomplish his heinous purpose, and after releasing the child he fled to the timber which is near the home.

A call was sent to Deputy Sheriff Hatchison and it was not until Sunday evening that he was located and placed under arrest, being brought to this city. The matter was kept very quiet until yesterday when it was announced previous to the arraignment.

Commissioners Favor Lowering Of Grade

At a conference between the county commissioners, representatives of the Sheridan-Kirk company and several citizens of Wheelersburg, held Tuesday afternoon, it was decided that the grade on Gallia pike through Wheelersburg should be lowered one foot and the cost of the same assessed against the abutting property owners, should the plan be accepted by the State Highway department.

Property owners residing along the Gallia pike at Wheelersburg took the matter up with the county commissioners Tuesday relative to lowering the grade, which they claim will materially enhance the value of property.

By lowering the grade, the drainage will be diverted from the adjoining lots. The cost will be very small and the dirt excavated will be used in grading lots along the street.

County Engineer John J. Harper will submit the proposed change to the State Highway department today.

Meanest Of Thieves Steals Widow's Meat

The "meanest thief" has again been discovered. An unknown culprit Tuesday night while Mrs. Nancy Haley, a widow of Fullerton was visiting neighbors broke the lock on her smokehouse and left with all the meat Mrs. Haley had, four slabs of side meat and four hams. The robbery was discovered when Mrs. Haley went to the smoke house last night to get some meat.

Fine Woman For Firing Gun; Other Police News

Hazel Jenkins, white, of Thirteenth and Railroad streets, who took a pistol shot at Arthur "Ekum" Ferguson, colored, because he is said to have cursed her Monday night, pleaded guilty in police court Wednesday to discharging firearms within the city limits and was fined $50. Ferguson was fined $10.

A man giving the name of William Thompson was fined $10 for misconduct on Market street Tuesday night and another giving the name of G. Coleman, who "got gay" with Officer Harding because he did not arrest Thompson quick enough to suit him was fined $5 for drunkenness. Dora McDurphy, colored, who was charged with disorderly conduct, having had a fight with her husband, Charles McDurphy, was dismissed. A landlady had caused her arrest, claiming Dora smashed a window during the mixup but Dora insisted the break was accidental and occurred while she was lowering the window.

BRYAN ARTICLE

The real reforms proposed by the Progressives in spirit, if not in letter, represent exactly what the Democratic party has been striving for. The party thus attracts the Progressives at the very point where the reactionary Republicans most repel them.

Third—Means of emphasizing the party's desire to welcome the Progressives will be found in the suppression of the reactionaries in the Democratic party. There are tares growing with the wheat and they have been allowed to grow lest in uprooting them some wheat might be uprooted also, but the party will be compelled to choose between this small and undesirable element on the one hand and the large and desirable addition which will find the Democratic party congenial in proportion as the reactionary element is frozen out. Those whose first allegiance is to the favor seeking corporations will naturally gravitate to the Republican party and to the policies for which it stands.

The process of elimination will take care of itself as the party defines the issue between the mass of the people asking only for the safe guarding of their rights and the privileged few seeking pecuniary advantage at the expense of the many. The Republican convention has cleared the air and principal and expediency unite in requiring that the lines be clearly drawn between Plutocracy and Democracy. In the campaign of 1912 the President refused to commit his fortunes to the political horses there is more reason to refuse to trust them now.

PRESIDENT WALKS

draped with American flags, had been erected. There the program provided the president leave the head of the parade and enter the stand with the members of the executive committee. Arrangements were made to have Mrs. Wilson and members of the cabinet join him to watch the remainder of the line pass.

To control the crowds, including visitors from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond and other nearby cities, the Washington police force had called for aid from soldiers from Fort Myer, Va., and marines and sailors from the navy yard here. Street car service along Pennsylvania avenue was ordered suspended during the parade.

No regular military organizations were permitted to march because Secretaries Baker and Daniels thought it would be improper for professional soldiers or sailors to participate. The national guard of the District of Columbia and every other volunteer military body were assigned places in the line. American flags were distributed to every marcher just before the parade started.

Many Bands Contributed Music Nearly every band in Washington and Baltimore has been pressed into service and it was necessary to have some of them march by the reviewing stand, several times in order to lead different organizations. The United States Marine band was placed just ahead of the president.

The parade was under the direction of Lieutenant General S. B. M. Young, honorary grand marshal, and M. C. Hazen, grand marshal. It was divided into eleven divisions, one of which was designated for negro citizens and organizations.

By permission of the navy department the navy wireless station at Arlington, Virginia, had been used to invite all radio operators in Washington and vicinity to participate in the celebration and the responses resulted in a special section being set aside for them.

With most of the marchers parading sixteen abreast the committee in charge of the arrangements estimated that the last contingents would pass the reviewing stand late in the afternoon.

HARMONY REIGNS

convention will be in order." One verse of America, was then sung by the entire crowd, with tossing flags keeping the rhyme. This was followed by one verse of the "Star Spangled Banner".

Prayer Offered By Dr. Lee

Rev. James W. Lee, Methodist Episcopal bishop of St. Louis, read this prayer:

"We thank Thee, O Lord, for all the great relationships which bind us together as a people. May we recognize our government and the laws under which we live, as so many means ordained by God, and approved and re-enacted into statutes and institutions by the citizens, for the building of the American people into one great social whole, so that the vast national body, fitly joined together and compacted by that which every member supplieth, according to the effectual working in the pleasure of every part, may make increase of the body unto the upbuilding of itself in good will and power."

"We thank Thee, O Lord, beyond and above all other things, at this time for the wisdom, conservation and patience shown by thy servant, the President of the United States, and by those associated with him in authority, which have enabled them to keep the people of this country out of the horrible and insane war, which is destroying the life and threatening with bankruptcy and ruin the civilization of mankind. From the very bottom of our hearts, O Lord, do we thank Thee, that the leaders called to guide our ship of state through the awful storm of fire and blood that has been raging for the past two years, have not lost their heads."

"Grant, O Lord, that there may be one wide stretching region between the oceans left as a refuge for the stricken, starving and the hopeless of all the earth. May there be one hospitable spot on the planet kept free from the fierce heat of the world conflict. May there remain, amid the falling rafter and gable ends of European governments, one great roomy abiding place, in order that despair may not paralyze the hearts and faith of men in one another and in the love of the eternal God, our Father."

"Let it be the function of the people of the United States, to demonstrate that it is possible for human beings to adjust their relations to one another and settle their differences between one another, without practicing the laws of the jungle. Let it be the function of our country, through its constituted authorities, to show to the world that man is a higher being than the tiger and hyena, and that he has other faculties by means of which to express himself, in times of stress and tension, than by horns and teeth and claws, such as the wild beasts use in making their way in the world."

"Give us peace and prosperity, not that we may merely live to enjoy ourselves, but that we may use both to bless our kind in all the world."

At the conclusion of his own prayer, Dr. Lee turned to the Lord's Prayer and the convention joined him in its sentences.

Immediately after the prayer Chairman McCombs delivered a brief address.

McCombs' Declaration Elliotts Demonstration

The first real demonstration greeted Mr. McCombs' declaration "The elephant is dead; the Moose is dead. Long live the American Eagle."

J. Bruce Kremer, secretary for the national committee then read the formal call for the convention.

When Chairman McCombs announced the temporary officers of the convention former Governor Martin J. Glynn, of New York, temporary chairman, was cheered. The full list of temporary officers was read and approved.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, Senator Taggart, of Indiana, and Senator Pomeroy, of Ohio, were appointed to escort Temporary Chairman Glynn to the chair. When the cheering subsided, Mr. Glynn launched into his keynote speech.

Justice at All Hours. A Paris contemporary discovered that one of the doors of the palace de justice is left ajar throughout the night. This door has never been shut since March 4, 1818, when Louis XVIII. ordered that it should remain perpetually open "so that my subjects may be able to seek justice at all hours of the day and night." However, an enterprising journalist who presented himself at the door in the small hours of the morning was promptly ejected by a watchman.

And when he quoted the ordinance of 1818 the reply was, "If you don't clear off you'll find yourself coming in by the prisoners' door tomorrow morning."

Charity. When his brother has lost all the he ever had and lies languishing and even enquiring under the utmost extremities of poverty and distress, do not think to tell him whole again only tell his tongue—South.

CARRANZA ANSWER TO BE DELAYED

Washington, D. C., June 14.—The United States' answer to the last note from General Carranza probably will not be made until after the St. Louis convention ends this week, it was learned in administration circles today. The delay was considered advisable to eliminate chance that any action toward Mexico at this time might be interpreted, as prompted by political influences. That course has been laid particularly in view of Carranza's strong intimations that the United States' dealings with Mexico have been determined by questions of internal politics in this country. The answer Secretary Lansing is preparing will rebuke General Carranza sharply for that intimation, it is said. Administration officials are still visibly worried over the possibility of serious Anti-American outbreaks in Mexico, but they are determined not to take the initiative in any aggression.

WILSON AND MARSHALL, VICTORY IN NOVEMBER, PROGRAM OF THE DEMOCRATS AS THEY CONVENE

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—Wilson and Marshall and victory in November was the program of the delegates who crowded into the big Coliseum here today for the opening session of the Democratic National convention. There probably was not one Democrat who went into the building who could recall when a national convention of that party entered upon its work with more harmony than that which prevailed among the more than one thousand delegates today. The candidates for president and vice president have been decided upon, and, according to leaders, there will be no friction on the party's declaration of principles. Only the paraphrasing of a few planks in the platform remains to be agreed upon.

Many Addresses Will Be Made

Despite the cut and dried program which the party managers hope to deliver by calling upon old campaigners to deliver ringing speeches to the delegates at odd moments during the sessions the sergeant-at-arms of the convention was prepared with a small army of assistants to handle large crowds at all of the meetings.

Every seat in the oval shaped hall has been allotted and arrangements were made to take care of hundreds in spaces back of the seats and in the aisles. The interior of the Coliseum was handsomely decorated, the American colors, of course, predominating.

The city itself was dressed for the occasion, the fact that this was Flag Day, the anniversary of the birth of the American flag, helped in the display of the colors.

May Name Marshall By Acclamation

President Wilson has indicated his preference for his running mate of four years ago and there is not the slightest doubt that his wish will be gratified. If the leaders who are managing the convention can bring it about, Vice President Marshall will be renominated by acclamation.

The session will be called to order at 12 o'clock by Wm. F. McCombs of New York, the retiring chairman of the national committee. The call for the convention is to be read by J. Bruce Kremer, the secretary of national convention. The program called for a prayer by Rev. James Lee, president of the St. Louis district Methodist Episcopal church south.

The reading of the list of temporary officers already agreed upon by the national committee was next in order then comes the keynote speech by the temporary chairman, Martin J. Glynn, of New York.

Keynote Address By Mr. Glynn

Mr. Glynn's speech is expected to take up more than an hour of the convention's time. After he concludes the roll of states is to be called for representation on the committees on credentials, permanent organization, rules and order of business, platform and committees to notify the candidates named.

Adjournment will be taken until noon Thursday when the committees will report. Permanent organization will be effected and after the permanent chairman, Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, delivers his speech, the convention may listen to some of the party's orators after which adjournment will be taken until Friday morning, when the platform will be read and adopted. Then will come a recess, and the presidential candidate will be named late Friday night. Whether the convention will adjourn after President Wilson has been renominated and a session held Saturday morning to name the vice president or whether the convention will take up the vice presidency immediately after the president has been named, has not yet been finally decided. A number of the leaders desire to have the convention complete its work late Friday night or early Saturday morning so as to avoid a Saturday session.

Some of the delegations that brought brass bands with them marched to the Coliseum, in a body. One of the largest organizations here is the Cook County Democratic club, which arrived last night prepared to help along the boom of Roger C. Sullivan, of Illinois. All of them had in the hands of their hats a small card on which was printed this demand:

"We want Roger C. Sullivan for vice president." The supporters of the other candidates for vice president were not so conspicuous although an organization of Indiana Democrats, 250 strong, marched to the Coliseum wearing Marshall buttons and carrying small flags.

"Golden Lane" As Suffrage Demonstration

Nearly everybody who went to the convention from the eastern part of St. Louis journeyed by way of Washington street which two hours before was transformed into a golden lane. On either side of the broad avenue stood woman suffrage arrayed in yellow. They stood or sat on stools they they stood, a few feet apart, and did not utter a word to the passing throngs making their way to the convention hall. The golden lane stretched for twelve blocks from the hotel district to the Coliseum and the mute demonstration was expected by its originators to influence the delegates in the matter of a declaration for suffrage. The suffragists hope to have the convention adopt the plank proposed by Secretary of the Navy McDaniel, which favors a suffragist amendment to the federal constitution.

The suffragists consider their cause should be greatly enhanced by having the secretary as an ally. They will make a big drive on the resolutions committee when it is appointed, and are confident that the Democratic convention will go farther than did the Republicans. Many speakers from the twelve suffrage states are in the city and many meetings will be held to advance the cause while the convention is in session.

Suffragists May Get Public Hearing

It is probable that a public hearing will be given, probably on Thursday to suffragists, labor leaders and others who have planks they desire inserted in the Democratic declaration of principles. Anti-Suffragists will also be given a hearing, it is said. Secretary of War Baker, who arrived here last night from Washington with the planks drafted personally by President Wilson, will submit them to the resolutions committee when it is appointed. Mr. Baker has taken extra precautions to prevent the text of the planks in his custody from reaching the public before submission to the committee. So cautious was he that on his way he took the papers from his traveling bag and kept them under the pillows in his berth while he slept.

Want to Win Over Progressives

Expressions of approval were heard today regarding the suggested plan to win over members of the Progressive party by making overtures to them in the Democratic platform. Denunciation of the use of the militia and armed guards against organized workers is contained in a proposed industrial plank submitted by Frank P. Walsh, former chairman of the Federal Industrial relations committee to Senator Stone, who will be chairman of the resolutions committee. The proposed plank also declares the right of labor unions to organize. "We demand the fullest encouragement," it reads, "both in administrative law and in the judicial process of union labor. To make this declaration effective, we point out that today and in the past the power of courts and other legal processes has been used against the rights of the workers to associate themselves in labor unions. We condemn these practices as being in violation of the spirit, at least, of the federal law securing to the workers the legal right of voluntary association."

"We denounce the practice, which prevails in no other civilized country, of permitting private interests both to employ the state and national soldiery and to employ armed guards and detectives to crush out unions, which are organized to promote the industrial interests of the wage earners."

"We pledge the enactment of all possible legislation to prevent such private usurpation of power."

Navy League Wants a Plank

A delegation of the Navy League, which is here to advocate a larger navy, will suggest to the resolutions committee a plank along the lines of the following: "The party advocates a navy so strong and powerful, that, coordinating with our coast defense it will be able to prevent the invasion of our shores and the destruction of our coast cities."

Many Democrats familiar with the activities of William Jennings Bryan in other conventions, are not so sure that the former standard bearer will not become active in the present convention. Mr. Bryan said he would not go on the floor with a proxy, but might speak to the delegates if invited. It was thought he might appear before the resolutions committee in advocacy of some of his ideas. Mr. Bryan said he did not expect to present his views on prohibition to the committee, but was here only to observe and write his impressions of the convention. The Nebraska since his arrival here early yesterday has been busy receiving callers, his rooms at the Democratic headquarters being constantly thronged with visitors.

Admission Ticket $5.00 Per Seat

Admission tickets to the Coliseum were selling today for five dollars each. Fifty dollars was offered for a series of tickets. Chairman McCombs of the national committee called upon the city authorities to arrest all persons found selling the tickets. Mr. McCombs ordered an investigation to show how the tickets reached the speculators. There was a squabble at the convention hall over tickets, the second in two days. Late last night Edward F. Goltz, national committee man from Missouri, issued orders barring every one from entering the hall until he was given more sergeants-at-arms badges. Charles Boeschenstein, national committeeman from Illinois, who has represented the committee in supervising the arrangements for the convention said that Goltz wanted more badges than the committee had awarded him.

When Chief Dogkeeper Charles White, of New York, arrived to inspect the building, he was told by Goltz that the building would not be turned over to the committee until his demands were satisfied. White got in communication with other national committeemen and in the meantime Goltz departed, leaving instructions for the officer on guard to let no one in the building. White, however, took possession of the Coliseum.

The Alaska delegation will present to the platform committee a resolution recommending the employment of only American labor on government construction work in Alaska.

United States "Balanced" Tires

One of the Five is Yours

No one tire will fit every motoring need of use and price.

That is why the United States Tire Company makes five tires—

"Nobby," "Chain," "Usco," "Royal Cord," and "Plain."

Each will give from a little to a whole lot more mileage than other tires in its class.

Motorists buy, and re-buy, United States "Balanced" Tires, because of—what?

Service—satisfactory service—mileage—value—least amount of trouble.

That's the reason that United States "Balanced" Tires show such steady, consistent sales increases.

Ask the nearest United States Tire Dealer for your copy of the booklet, "Judging Tires," which tells how to find the particular tire to suit your needs.

Pension Plan Is Explained

Agent W. K. Ruark, of the Wells Fargo express company, has just received circular letters from the company explaining in detail the new and generous benefit and pension plan it inaugurated for employees, beginning June 1. This express company has had a liberal pension system for years but the new one is an advance step and improvement amongst the pension plans of the great corporate interests of America. The minimum allowance for superannuated employees is now fixed at $30 per month. Under the old plan there was no minimum allowance.

When Wagner Fleed. Richard Wagner, the composer, was an ardent republican in 1849. In the archives of Dresden there is a document setting forth a case of high treason against the musician. He was accused of having written to a friend a letter proposing to turn Saxony into a republic. "But whom shall we make president?" he asked. "I see nobody competent for the office except our present sovereign, Frederick Augustus II." Frederick Augustus does not seem to have appreciated the humor of the suggestion that he should doff the crown and content himself with the dignity of a republican president. For this dash of unconscionable fun Wagner had to bolt to Switzerland.

Qualities Lacking. "Your boy Josh has the muscles of a prizefighter." "Yes, replied Farmer Coratossel. "But I'm afraid he hasn't got the eloquence or the business sense."—Washington Star.

PETE CHILDS
COMING

Pete Childs, the man who virtually put Portsmouth on the base ball map, is coming to the city Saturday from Toledo, O., and will attend the "Shoemaker Day" festivities in Millbrook. He is now located in Toledo where he is running Harry Hinchman's poolroom and bowling alleys. Pete is sure to get a great reception when he enters the park. No more popular manager ever directed a team than Mr. Childs.

Mrs. Childs is already here and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jeffords of Sixth street.

Plan For Campaign

Sheriff E. W. Smith, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination as sheriff, is planning an extensive campaign through Scioto county in the interests of his candidacy and the Republican party. Several of the county officials seeking re-election will accompany Sheriff E. W. Smith.

Plan New Addition

J. E. Shump and Lincoln Poole, well known local real estate agents are planning a second addition to City View, a popular subdivision located on the West Side. This new addition will contain ten acres. All of the latest improvements are to be installed by the owners. In all there will be fifty fine building lots.

Lack Of Room Results In Patients Being Turned Away

Officials of the Anti-Tuberculosis League reported today that patients are being turned away from the Fresh Air Camp on Mabert Road on account of lack of room. A number of patients, mostly school children, were admitted Monday, which completely fills the institution, and no more patients can be admitted until some are sent home, which will probably be next week. They are being well cared for by the nurse, Miss Ingles. A physician visits the camp daily and prescribes for them when it is necessary, but he depends mostly upon the good air and nourishing food to bring back the health glow. One little fellow gained two pounds the first week he was there.

Some of the youngsters hardly know what it is to be out in the country where they can play and make all the noise they want, except during certain prescribed rest hours, when every one must lie down and rest. At first some of the patients object to sleeping out on the screened porches, but after one night's rest in the perfect air out there you could not hire them to sleep inside again. Outdoor sleeping will soon be very common about the city.

As this work is strictly charitable, it requires considerable funds to operate the institution. It is filling a long felt want, for Portsmouth is full of anemic children who will in later years develop

A Helpful Confession

Mrs. B. writes: "Had suffered for years with stomach disorder. Could not eat without great distress, lost weight and was run down. Feared it was ulcerated stomach. Fortunately I secured a sample of HEMO, which seemed to satisfy my hunger, and was retained without distress. I immediately bought a package and started to take it regularly. I continued to take it once a day and improved steadily. After one year I have gained 33 pounds of good solid flesh and can eat any food with no distress. I can recommend HEMO to all sufferers from stomach or digestive disorders. Makes a delicious food drink by simply adding water. We suggest that you try a 50c package with our guarantee of satisfaction."

May Issue Newspaper To Explain Text Book Plan

The Free Text Book committee, of the Portsmouth Council No. 38 and New Boston Council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics are planning to establish a semi-monthly newspaper which will be used to explain the proposed Free Text Book law, which the organization is fostering.

One of the members of the committee in charge stated Wednesday that the proposed law had been "grossly misrepresented" in several of the counties of the state and that the establishment of a newspaper was for the sole purpose of explaining some of these misrepresentations.

The initiative petitions recently circulated by the committee asking for the establishment of a Free Text Book law will soon be filed with the secretary of state.

The committee in charge is: William West C. B. Groninger, Nate Delong, Irwin Bowser, P. W. Quickel, George Laidley, New Boston and William Giles, New Boston.

ST. MARY'S COMMENCEMENT WAS HELD LAST NIGHT, IS A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Diplomas Are Presented To The Six Graduates; Exercises Best Ever Held By Progressive School

With faces wreathed in glowing smiles and facing their parents, teachers and friends, six young people, three boys and three girls, Dennis W. Burtuss, Magdalene C. Glockner, Grace E. Kirby, Earl N. Reinhardt, Charlotte E. Scheffler and Clarence W. Scheffler received their diplomas, as a reward for having completed a course of education in St. Mary's school, the commencement exercises, the best ever held by the school, being given in the Portsmouth High School Auditorium, before a capacity audience Tuesday evening. The entire program, one of splendid entertainment, proved to be one of the best arranged affairs ever presented before a Portsmouth audience. All expressed their feeling that the commencement was a grand success, the two plays being out of the ordinary and carried out in a clever manner by the young students who are deserving of much credit for the success of the evening's entertainment. Many compliments were passed on the "actors" and "actresses" at the close of the two performances, and every word of praise was gladly welcomed as each one who took part worked their hardest and at no time did they falter in their effort to get over the knotty places in their lengthy lines.

The boys play was presented first and at its close the audience felt highly repaid but more surprise was coming, as the girl's play proved equally as entertaining as the one put on by the boys. The commencement program was short, no extra time being taken up with orations or class address on account of the length of the two plays which followed the presenting of the diplomas.

After the opening number by Bede's Orchestra, the large curtain was pulled aside, revealing over fifty pupils of the school, some from the lower grades, who had been selected to render the opening number of the graduation exercises. Prof. J. V. Schiffer, music teacher, stepped to the front and under his capable direction, the large body, assisted by the orchestra, rendered "The Soldiers Chorus". It will be hard completed the business course and the course of study offered by St. Mary's school with much success. I take great pleasure in presenting you with your diplomas. Each stepped forward and received their diplomas tied with red and blue ribbon, the class colors.

Two girls of the class, Magdalene C. Glockner and Grace E. Kirby won signal honors in the way of gold medals presented by the Remington Typewriter Company for speed in typewriting. Each graduate then received diplomas from the Remington Typewriter Company, showing success in artistic typing. Every member of the class also received diplomas offered by the Underwood Typewriter Company for speed on the typewriter. Complimentary remarks to the students and sisters who toiled with the students who left school and thanks to the large audience for their attendance, made by Father Goebel, closed the real graduation exercises, which will long be remembered by every member of the class of 1916.

Plays and Specialties Made a Big Hit

Then came the plays and specialties, the latter creating laughs at every remark made by the little folks who certainly performed their parts well.

Jane Snyder was the first to entertain the crowd. She stepped from between the curtains and before the footlights, while preparations were made for the boy's play. Little Miss Snyder's specialty was entitled "Mammy's Pickaninny". Miss Snyder, black as the "ace of spades", captivated the audience and put it in a spirit that had them with the players the entire evening. Coupled with her actions was the singing of the girls behind the curtain, who deserve some credit for their help.

Then came the boys' drama, "The Hidden Gem". As the curtains were pulled aside, the eyes of the audience rested on a woodland scene which surrounded a noted castle, the home of Euphemianus, a Roman Patrician, whose part was splendidly played by Earl Reinhardt, graduate. The scene was the front lawn porch of the castle. Alexius, only son of the Patrician, in disguise and called Ignatius, which part was well taken care of by Edward Butler, was the first to enter, it being the return to his old home. Euphemianus lived on the Aventine and had great wealth. He had educated his son in principles of solid piety and in the practice of unbounded charity. When he was still young a Divine command ordered the son to quit his father's house and lead the life of a poor pilgrim. He accordingly repaired to Edessa, where he had lived five years, during which time he was sought for in vain by his father. He was similarly ordered. To return home and at the opening this is where we find him, returning home as a wandering pilgrim.

His father taking him for a stranger, moved to pity, gives him rest and food. The free action of the Patrician does not suit the mind of Proculus, his freedman and steward, which part was well carried by Alphonse Sommer. Proculus did not like the idea of his master receiving a total stranger into the house as he would a saint. As the trio leave to enter the house, the slaves, Bibulus (Clarence Schieffler), Vernus (Clarence Pierron), Pamphile (Paul Kern), Strigil (Albert Sommer), Darius (Herbert Yueninger), Ursulus (Clarence Keller), Servus (Edmund Pierron), Fumatus (Roland Weber), the latter three black, enter with their tools and listen to talks of rebellion made by Bibulus. Eusebius, which part was well taken care of by Dennis Burtuss, also a slave enters and talks against Bibulus and tries to persuade the slaves that Bibulus is all in the wrong. The entire party is dispersed by Proculus, and the curtain is drawn on act one.

Comedy Sketch Is Presented

The second specialty, "Doctor Bills," was another comical number that brought rounds of laughter and applause. The sketch presented was that of about thirty small girls carrying their doll babies, who were sick and demanded the attention of the doctor, whose bills were enormous. The doctor was little Charles Reitz. The little tots were helped in singing by a number of girls behind the scene.

The second act of the boys' play opened with the same scene. Gannio, a beggar, which part was well carried by Herbert Yueninger, makes his appearance here. He is met by Bibulus, who is still at the head of the slaves in rebellion. He takes from Gannio a rat poison which he puts in water for Alexius, called Ignatius. Instead of the son coming to drink, his father, the Patrician, arrives first and starts to drink, but is prevented from so doing by Ignatius. Bibulus is forgiven and driven away. Eusebius is freed in this act. The slaves believed the stranger guilty of poisoning the water, but Eusebius took his part.

The third act opens with Bibulus, Gannio and two robbers, Harold Doerr and Leonard Fewthers, arriving to steal the master's gold plate, which had been set on tables prepared for the sorrowful celebration of the master's son's ten year's absence. The stranger, in prayer, scares away the robbers and Proculus arrives to find the stranger the only one in sight. He is accused of the robbery and suspicion points strongly to him. His father refuses to pardon him this time, although his nephew, Carinus, who is to fall heir to the Patrician's wealth in the absence of his son begs that his father forgive the stranger as he is too pure to steal. Alexius, who had now lived five years as a stranger and pilgrim in his father's house without being recognized, and amidst the scorn and ill-treatment of the slaves and servants, and who is grief-stricken over his father's action in not forgiving him, dies.

Caught Escaping From Castle Grounds

An officer (Edward Huels) arrives with Bibulus and Gannio, whom he caught escaping from the castle grounds after the robbery. This clears Ignatius, who is dead. The Imperial Chamberlain, who was to have been an honored guest at the celebration, arrives shortly after the death, and on inquiry as to why so early an arrival, he tells of a voice which was heard through all the churches of the city and which told of the death of a saint which was Alexius, son of Euphemianus. A will was then found in which Alexius told of being the son of the Patrician and of how he had suffered. The servants beg for mercy and are forgiven, the play closing with all mourning the death of the pilgrim who had led the life of a saint, the hidden gem.

"The Dixie Kids" was the title of the third specialty presented before the start of the girl's play. This was another laughable sketch, but on account of time the little folks were not allowed to respond to an encore. Some twenty little boys furnished the singing, while Eugene Emmett, David Snyder, John Kirby, Raymond Thoman, Edward Billian and Gilbert Ross, dressed as little colored boys, went through many funny antics, characteristic of pickaninnies.

"The Haunt of the Fairies" was the title of the play presented by the girls. It was a short drama in three acts and was presented in a manner which won instant favor with the audience. The opening scene showed the recreation room of the Holy Angels' convent shortly before eight o'clock in the evening. The school girls, Louise Glockner, Mary Schuler, Kathryn Beaumont, Anna Miller, Alma Russell, Emma Gengenbacher, Mabel Delhotel, Marie Baum, Cecilia Brennan, Cecilia Doll, Marie Davison, Anna Glockner, Clara Vetter, Anna Goodman, Gertrude Kirby, Nellie Meisel, Teresa Miller, Cecilia Goodman, Clara Gengenbacher, Aurelia Brennan, Genevieve Thoman, Dorothy Butler, Helen Doerr, Cecile Doerr, Rosa Doll, Bernadine Stember, Marcella McAfee, Alma Diener, Adelaide Orlett, Marcella Doll, Helen Scheffer and Margaret Frantz were having a jolly time in dancing and playing. The girls looked beautiful in their dresses of white, with red hair ribbons and red sashes. "Eight o'clock" taps the clock and away they scamper to their beds, a neat drill being executed when they left the stage. Maggie, housemaid, (Mary Lombard) arrives and shortly afterward come Mother Angela, Superior of the Holy Angels' Convent, which part is well taken care of by Magdalene Glockner and Sister Julia, assistant to the Superior, which part is carried by Margaret Vetter. Here is told the story of the school grove.

A hundred years ago a band of men were caught in the present school-grove of the Holy Angels' Convent engaged in the worship of Satan. They had been carrying on this worship for twenty years before they were discovered and broken up. From that day, every twenty years, the grove was haunted by fairies. Just before the fairies the demon seemed to have dreadful power, causing unrest and a worldly spirit among the larger girls of the school. The spell would be broken when an innocent maid should break in upon the fairies' revel at midnight and disperse them at the cost of her life.

Some of the larger girls, Cora (Marcella McAfee) Mildred, (Alma Diener), Ruth (Adelaide Orlett), Sylvia (Marcella Doll) Myrtle (Helen Schaefer) and Jessica (Margaret Frantz) are dissatisfied with the rules of the school and one of them holds secret communication with a roving gypsy, and influences five others to leave the convent school.

The second act is a scene on the girl's playground at eleven o'clock of the same night. The six girls steal away to meet the gypsy queen in the woods, where she is to tell their fortunes. Agnes, Prefect of Studies, (Bernadine Stember) appears on the scene and pleads with the girls to remain, but they refuse to listen. The third act finds them in the fairies' grove with the gypsy queen, which part was splendidly taken by Grace Kirby. The Queen of the Fairies (Charlotte Schieffler), then appear with her fairies: Louise "Scheffler", Jane Snyder, Rosina Frederick, Marcella Frederick, Ruth Russell, Julia Russell, Arline Vogt, Dolores Maier, Margaret Cuppett, Mary Switalski, Regina Reitz, Irene Spence, Jean Schlitz, Mildred Schreieck, who were dressed in white and gold tinsel. The six girls are about to pledge themselves to the fairy queen when Mother Superior, called by the Angel of Agnes, arrives and by the power of Christ disperses the evil spirits and takes back the girls. As Agnes dies her Angel (Elizabeth Orlett) dressed as an angel, appears. Agnes has asked the Lord to help her disperse the spell which so long hovered over the place and by her death it is lifted. Incidental music for the vocal numbers and for the dances and drills was furnished by Marcella Sommer.

Dear Dolly.—I understand there is no reserve in the United States army at the present time. Was there any in 1914, if so, are those who joined the army at that time on the reserve after they serve three years?

A READER.

There is a Reserve Army at the present time. Under the Army Act passed in 1912, which went into effect November 1, 1912, those who, after serving four years in the regular army, are attached to the reserve list, for three years. After serving four years in the regular army while in the reserve they can re-enlist in the regular army for another term of seven years. But if going on the Reserve Army after only three years regular service, a man cannot re-enlist until he has served his seven years.

Dear Dolly.—Please print in your column whether white stockings and black slippers are stylish, and are they worn a great deal?

A READER.

White stockings and black slippers are worn very extensively now. The latest edicts of fashion tell us that colored hose of all hues and combinations of colors will be "quite correct" this season. If you go in for this style have hose that match and correspond in color with your summer gowns or light dresses. Pretty black pumps are always good and worn with either black or light hose look well, providing you keep your shoes repaired and in the best of condition. Always keep the feet neatly dressed as this goes a long way toward stylishness.

Dolly Wise.—Please give me the number of votes Mr. Taft, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Roosevelt received separately, in 1912.

READER.

In the presidential election of 1912 Wilson's popular vote was 6,293,019; Taft's, 3,484,956, and Roosevelt's, 4,119,507. Wilson's plurality was 2,173,512.

Dear Miss Wise.—Will you please print a recipe for strawberry pudding.

MRS. C. B.

Beat three eggs without separating until light; add one pint of milk; sift in three and a-half cups of flour, and beat until perfectly smooth. Add one tablespoon of butter melted, one-half teaspoon of salt and four teaspoons of baking powder, then add one pint of hulled strawberries dredged with flour. Turn the pudding into a greased mold, cover tightly, stand in boiling water and boil continuously for three hours. Serve with hard and liquid sauce.

"Mother"—You say you are in perfect health, yet cannot sleep at night. From the sound of your letter I should think you must let your house work worry you until you are so nervous you cannot sleep. In the evening eat lightly and learn to relax. It will be hard but is the quickest way to overcome nervousness. When you retire release the hold on your muscles and nerves, be quiet, rest your brain and I am sure you will sleep. Give this treatment a trial and if it fails, I advise you to see a physician.

Put a thin coating of varnish or shellac on your linoleum that, I think, will keep printed linoleum from fading. The flowered cretonnes and pretty chintz patterns are used quite extensively for extra coverings and when they correspond with the window draperies look very pretty. Your room would be more of a front room without the sewing machine; but if you have no other place for it and in a small house it could be used as a table with a pretty covering. In a small house, to place furniture to the best advantage is a problem, and I think the arrangement you mentioned would not be objectionable.

Dear Miss Dolly.—What kind of handkerchiefs are being used now? I must buy a supply of new ones, but don't know what kind to get, as the styles in handkerchiefs change like everything else.

WANT-TO-KNOW.

You are right about the style changing. There is always something new and right 'up to the minute in the handkerchief line as in all others. Kerchiefs, the color of one's frock, for sport or general wear of linen, and for dressy occasions the dainty squares of crepe de chine, very fine linens with lace edgings or colored embroidery are much used. You will find a wide and varied assortment in the stores to choose from. Or if you have the time and are willing to do hand work, you can make lovely ones, using fine linen, a little lace or embroidery in the corner. Cross-stitch is effectively used, and in short time, too.

My Dear Miss Wise.—Do you know of anything that will keep the weeds and dandelions from coming up in the yard? After mowing, the grass never looks fine and smooth on account of these troublesome pests.

GARDNER.

Sulphate of iron will kill the weeds and dandelion plants. Another sure but slow remedy may be used if you have the patience to keep at it. Dig out around the root of the dandelion and weeds and apply salt. This will in time kill it but you may have to repeat the process several times before the desired result is obtained.

The New Home Treatment For Ugly, Hairy Growths

(Boudoir Secrets)
Here is a simple, yet very effective method for removing hair and fuzz from the face, neck and arms. Cover the objectionable hairs with a paste made by mixing some water with a little powdered salicylic acid. Leave this on for 5 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. No pain or inconvenience attends this treatment, but results will be certain if you are sure to get real salicylic acid.

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once harassed with pain and suffering. It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularity, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

Convince Yourself

Look at Crisco. Its very appearance tells a story of purity. It is creamy white and just stiff enough to round up nicely on the spoon.

Then see if it has an odor. You will find none but a delicate aroma, indicative of its purity. Crisco remains the same in hot weather without refrigeration.

Next taste it. You will find a neutral taste; that is, practically no flavor—not greasy or "lardy." It resembles cold, unsalted butter.

Then try it. First fry potatoes, and note the wholesome potato flavor. You may never have known the potato flavor before because the taste of the fat you have been using has predominated. Crisco allows the true flavor of the food to assert itself.

Next make some biscuits. See how light they are. Break one open and you will be delighted with its appetizing odor. This is a severe test for a shortening.

Next make a white cake and learn how delicate and rich your cake will be without butter and with few eggs.

Please convince yourself about Crisco. If you will know Crisco you will be a Crisco enthusiast.

SOCIETY

The B. B. I. held a delightful meeting last evening at the home of Miss Eloise Hicks, where a demonstrative contest was one of the pleasures of the evening. Miss Hattie Hausman, of Clifton Forge, Va., was the winner in the contest and was given a beautiful handmade handkerchief as a favor. The rooms were exquisitely adorned with pink rambler roses. Miss Hicks was assisted by her mother in serving dainty refreshments. The guests were Misses Louise Gibbs, Hattie Hausman, of Clifton Forge, Va., Helen Gross, Mrs. Chup Watts. The members present were Misses Florence Daehler, Helen Hosz, Helen Rowe, Ludora White, May McGhee, Ruby Heberlein and Eloise Hicks.

The Bepelow Methodist Woman's Foreign Missionary Society held the regular meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mark W. Selby, on Fourth street. There were thirty present. Mrs. Floyd Fuller acted as secretary in place of Mrs. W. D. Gilliland, who was out of the city. The devotions were followed by stories read by Mrs. Carrie Bates and Mrs. Floyd Fuller read a chapter in the text-book. Two letters from the field were read. The refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The members of the Art Circle and their husbands who are going to Wheelersburg Thursday evening to take lunch at the stand of the Home for Aged Women, on the Bell lawn, are urged to meet at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Berndt, as soon after 5 o'clock as possible, so they can all take the 5:30 car to meet the 6 o'clock traction car at New Boston. The members are also requested to buy their tickets of a member of the committee, or can purchase them at Zoellner's store on Chillicothe street, as these tickets are different from the regular traction tickets and will help the Home for Aged Women.

Mrs. Henry Revare leaves tomorrow for Columbus to see her niece, Miss Helen Grimsaw, graduated from East High school. Mrs. Revare will remain for a week's visit.

MOTHER FINDS LITTLE BOY UNCONSCIOUS IN STALL

A half hour after the mother instituted a search for him Glenn, a 6-year-old son of Ellis Morris, a showworker, was found lying unconscious beside a horse in a stall of the stable on the home place in Carey's Run, Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

The injured boy had rallied somewhat Wednesday afternoon but had not yet regained consciousness. Dr. Harry Rapp, of Nauvoo, who attended him, did not believe the skull was fractured. There were slight bruises about the head and it is thought the boy either fell from the manger or was kicked or stepped upon by the horse. The animal appeared frightened. The father arrived home from the city fifteen minutes after the boy was found.

Political Blackmail Says Wilson

Washington, D. C., June 14—In a flag day speech here today President Wilson charged that there were some foreign born persons in the United States who were trying to levy a kind of political blackmail on the American political parties in the interest of foreign governments. This, the president declared, must be stopped. He was sounding what some of his advisors said would be one of the issues of the coming presidential campaign.

ROOSEVELT SUFFERS COUGHING SPELLS

New York, June 14—Reports today that Theodore Roosevelt was seriously ill, apparently proved unfounded. He has been experiencing coughing spells recently, and in a statement late today regarding an attack of pain while he was at a pier this morning awaiting the arrival of his son Kermit from South America, the Colonel explained that this coughing probably had strained a ligament. "One year ago," the Colonel said, "I broke one of my ribs in the left side while riding. The horse fell and threw me. The coughing spells which I have had probably strained a ligament. It's ridiculous, but painful, so like King George, I arch my neck and walk lightly."

Paving Work Is Rushed

Work on both the Munn's Run and Wheelersburg paving contracts are being rushed to completion. John J. Harper, county engineer said today that one thousand feet of curbing and one mile of grading had been completed on the Sciotoville-Wheelersburg contract by the Sheridan Kirk company.

On the Munn's Run road, Ringwald and Sons have completed 3,600 feet of curbing; one thousand feet of concrete base and practically all of the grading.

Officials Are "Waiting"

City officials said Tuesday that there were as yet no new developments relative to the proposed laying of street car tracks across the new Lawson Run viaduct, pending which the paving work on the structure is stopped.

The officials said that they were simply waiting on the N. & W. railway company and the street railway company to get together in the matter.

HARMONY REIGNED

Governor Glynn's declaration on Americanism and that "the policy of the administration as to neutrality is as American as the American flag" were given a prolonged demonstration.

When Mr. Glynn predicted the re-election of President Wilson the delegates rose en masse and cheered, waving flags and whistling shrilly. The band helped along the demonstration. Governor Glynn laughing vainly tried to quiet the delegates, but they were determined to have it out, the uproar alternately rising and ebbing.

Further attempts to stop the demonstration were answered by renewed cheering. Glynn pounded his gavel, trying to silence the throng, but soon the floor was again a sea of flags. The New Jersey delegation, bearing its stanchion, began the first procession down the front aisle. Stanchions of Illinois, Maryland, Indiana and other states soon followed.

The crowd got entirely out of hand, but police prevented a general procession by ordering the delegates to their sections.

When the demonstration had been going on fifteen minutes, appeals were made to delegates to take their seats and let the speakers go on. They were answered by more noise. Finally after sixteen minutes order was restored, and Mr. Glynn went on.

Glynn Frequently Interrupted by Applause

Mr. Glynn's long recitation of efforts by President Wilson and former presidents to preserve American neutrality and keep peace was frequently interrupted by applause.

As Glynn recounted, each instance, some delegates would shout:

"What did the president do?" "He settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president is trying to do now," Glynn would reply and the convention would roar its approval.

When he had spoken one hour, Glynn was half way through his prepared speech and he attempted to pass on to other subjects, but the delegates wanted more of the same subject.

"I can't stay on that all day," said Glynn.

"I've got something else to tell you about."

Women delegates led a demonstration which followed Mr. Glynn's declaration that the president's neutrality policy "satisfies the mothers of the land."

The crowd fumed Mr. Glynn to repeat a part of his address, drowned in applause when he declared that the men of America will fight and die for our flag when reason primes the rifle, when honor draws the sword and when justice breathes a blessing on the cause that they uphold.

Another prolonged demonstration followed.

Mr. Bryan In Tears

From his desk William J. Bryan joined, tears streaming and his face flushed with emotion. A Texas delegate called out: "Don't forget that his policy also satisfies William J. Bryan."

Mr. Bryan gazed intently at Glynn and enthusiastically clapped his hands in approval of the speaker's deprecation of war.

In the midst of his peroration the braying of a donkey disturbed Governor Glynn for a moment.

Evidently the governor regarded the braying as approval. The audience laughed, the speaker smiled and continued to the end, a laudation of Woodrow Wilson as "President and President to be."

He concluded at 2:30 p. m. The delegates stood for two minutes and cheered.

Convention Adjourns Until Tomorrow

The rules of the house of the representatives were adopted and the organization of the convention was completed by the call of the states for their alignments on the sub-committees. As usual all resolutions presented for consideration of the platform committee were ordered to be submitted in writing and without debate presented to the committee.

At 2:49 p. m. the convention adjourned until 11 a. m. tomorrow out of respect to Thomas J. Pence, of North Carolina, late secretary of the National Committee, an intimate friend of President Wilson and known to all Democrats. The resolution was offered by Senator Walsh, of Montana.

Standing committees are meeting this afternoon.

OBITUARY

Paul Charles Schirmmann

After a two weeks' illness with spinal meningitis, death, at 5:30 Tuesday afternoon, claimed Paul Charles Schirmmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Schirmmann, of 1112 Gallia street. The boy's death occurred at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Cook, of 1648 Fifth street, where the boy was moved when it was learned that he was afflicted with the dread disease. For several days he showed signs of improvement, but he underwent a change for the worse Sunday and since that time his condition had been extremely grave.

It was two weeks ago last Saturday that the deceased began to complain that he was not feeling well. He had never been sick a day in his life, and he, as well as his parents, thought he would soon be feeling better. But he grew worse and on Decoration Day a physician was summoned. It was then that it was learned that the boy was suffering with spinal meningitis, but it was thought to be a light case. Mrs. Schirmmann accompanied her son to the home of her parents and nursed him with the tender care of a mother almost day and night.

When the victim became much worse Monday, Mr. Schirmmann left his business and also went to the Cook home, to be at the bedside of his boy. The boy passed away at 5:30 last night with relatives at his bedside, in spite of the fact that loving hands and expert medical aid had done all that could be done to stay the hand of death.

Paul Charles Schirmmann was born February 16, 1900. He would have been a junior in the Portsmouth High School this fall, had not death intercepted his bright career. In addition to his broken-hearted parents he leaves one sister, Emma, one brother, Harold, a member of this year's P. H. S. graduating class, and many other relatives and friends.

Paul was an exceedingly bright and studious boy and his death will be learned of with genuine sorrow. He was a mealy little fellow and liked by all who knew him. The funeral services were conducted from the Cook home at 3:30 this afternoon, Rev. R. B. Cartwright officiating. Interment was in Greenlawn.

The body was placed near a window in the Cook home, and those who wisher to look for the last time upon the features of this lovable youth, did so.

Mrs. Robitt

The pleasure relatives had derived by a visit from Mrs. Julia Wells-Robitt, aged 79 years, of Haverhill, changed to grief and sorrow when she fell over dead at the home of her grandson, Walter Hannan, of 1413 Findlay street, Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Robitt had finished eating breakfast and was sitting in a chair talking pleasantly to members of the household when suddenly she was stricken. A physician responded to a hurry call but she expired before he could reach the home.

Mrs. Robitt had come to Portsmouth a week ago to visit her son-in-law, J. L. Hannan, a widower, of Twelfth street and her grand children, Mrs. Lulu Grey, C. W. K. Hannan, real estate man, C. M. Hannan, railway mail clerk, J. E. and W. H. Hannan, contractors. She had been in bad health, suffering with heart trouble for the past several years.

Mrs. Robitt was the widow of the late Elias H. Robitt, who died ten years ago. She is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Anne Leckwood and William Robitt, of Buchanan, Ky.; James Robitt, of East Liverpool, O.; and Mrs. Mary Brown, of Haverhill. She also leaves an only brother, Stephen Wells, of this city. Mrs. Robitt was a member of the Baptist church. Her remains will be buried beside those of her husband in the Mt. Zion, Ky. cemetery.

Coroner Dr. J. W. Daehler after holding an examination returned a verdict of death due to natural causes.

Woodrow Pinsky

Woodrow, the little four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Pinsky, of Fullerton, died at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon, after suffering several days from gastroenteritis. The funeral services were held at the home of George Darby Wednesday afternoon, at three o'clock, with Rev. Musaeus officiating. Burial at Beech Heights.

The Factory Behind the Food

More than forty different kinds of corn flakes were prepared experimentally before New Post Toasties were finally developed to perfection. As a distinguishing feature, note the tiny bubbles on each flake—raised by the quick, intense heat of a new, patented process of manufacture.

New Post Toasties are the first corn flakes with a self-developed flavour—the full, true flavour of choice white Indian Corn—unlike common "corn flakes" that depend largely on cream and sugar for their palatability.

Try a handful dry—this simple test will demonstrate the delicious new flavour. But the flakes are usually served with cream or rich milk.

New Post Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package, and they "stand up" when cream or milk is added. They're untouched by human hands and put up in moisture-proof packages to preserve their oven freshness until served.

Rev. T. H. McAfee Is To Fill Old Pulpit

No doubt a splendid crowd will be present at the First Baptist church, tomorrow, Thursday evening, to extend a royal greeting to the former pastor, Rev. T. H. McAfee, now of Marion, O., who will fill the pulpit. Rev. McAfee was, without a doubt, one of the most beloved and most popular ministers who ever filled a Portsmouth pulpit, and his former parishioners, together with his many other friends and well-wishers will be out in full force to demonstrate their love for him. Rev. McAfee will begin preaching at 7:30 o'clock, after which a reception will be held. Everybody most cordially invited.

Picnic Thursday

The annual picnic of the Holy Redeemer school will be held in Millbrook park, Thursday. One of its features will be the annual ball game between the St. Mary's and Holy Redeemer teams. It will be played tomorrow morning in the park. Rev. J. E. McGuirk, pastor of the Holy Redeemer church, stated today that he had provided for 35 gallons of ice cream for the all day outing tomorrow.

WILSON AND MARSHALL, VICTORY IN NOVEMBER, SAY DEMOCRATS

CONVENTION OPENS AT NOON WITH 1,000 DELEGATES ALL IN HARMONY

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—Wilson and Marshall, victory in November was the program of the delegates who crowded into the big Coliseum here today for the opening session of the Democratic National convention. There probably was not one Democrat who went into the building who could recall when a national convention of that party entered upon its work with more harmony than that which prevailed among the more than one thousand delegates today. The candidates for president and vice president have been decided upon, and, according to leaders, there will be no friction on the party's declaration of principles. Only the phraseology of a few planks in the platform remains to be agreed upon.

Many Addresses Will Be Made
Despite the cut and dried program which the party managers hope to enliven by calling upon old campaigners to deliver ringing speeches to the delegates at odd moments during the sessions, the sergeant-at-arms of the convention was prepared with a small army of assistants to handle large crowds at all of the meetings. Every seat in the oval shaped hall has been allotted and arrangements were made to take care of hundreds in spaces back of the seats and in the aisles. The interior of the Coliseum was handsomely decorated, the American colors, of course, predominating.

The city itself was dressed for the occasion, the fact that this was Flag Day, the anniversary of the birth of the American flag, helped in the display of the colors.

May Name Marshall By Acclamation
President Wilson has indicated his preference for his running mate of four years ago and there is not the slightest doubt that his wish will be gratified. If the leaders who are managing the convention can bring it about, Vice President Marshall will be renominated by acclamation.

The session will be called to order at 12 o'clock by Wm. F. McCombs of New York, the retiring chairman of the national committee. The call for the convention is to be read by J. Bruce Kremer, the secretary of national convention. The program called for a prayer by Rev. James Lee, president of the St. Louis district Methodist Episcopal church south. The reading of the list of temporary officers already agreed upon by the national committee was next in order then comes the keynote speech by the temporary chairman, Martin H. Glynn, of New York.

Keynote Address By Mr. Glynn
Mr. Glynn's speech is expected to take up more than an hour of the convention's time. After he concludes the roll of states to be called for representation on the committees on credentials, permanent organization, rules and order of business, platform and committees to notify the candidates named.

Adjournment will be taken until noon Thursday when the committees will report. Permanent organization will be effected and after the permanent chairman, Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, delivers his speech, the convention may listen to some of the party's orators after which adjournment will be taken until Friday morning, when the platform will be read and adopted. Then will come a recess, and the presidential candidate will be named late Friday night.

Whether the convention will adjourn after President Wilson has been renominated and a session held Saturday morning to name the vice president or whether the convention will take up the vice presidency immediately after the president has been named, has not yet been finally decided. A number of the leaders desire to have the convention complete its work late Friday night or early Saturday morning so as to avoid a Saturday session.

Some of the delegations that brought brass bands with them marched to the Coliseum in a body. One of the largest organizations here is the Cook County Democratic club which arrived last night prepared to help along the boom of Roger C. Sullivan, of Illinois. All of them had in the bands of their hats a small card on which was printed this demand:

"We want Roger C. Sullivan for vice president." The supporters of the other candidates for vice president were not so conspicuous although an organization of Indiana Democrats, 250 strong, marched to the Coliseum wearing

LILLY AND ROBINSON VOTE TAKEN TO COURT; CHARGE IRREGULARITIES

Wheeling, W. Va., June 14.—With only 300 votes separating A. A. Lilly and Ira E. Robinson, candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor, the contest has already found its way into the courts and prospects today were that further legal action would be taken.

The first general primary election was held throughout the state June 6, but the count was slow and charges of fraud were frequently heard. Both candidates sought a recount in a number of counties, and as these figures are

Marshall buttons and carrying small flag. "Golden Lane" As Suffrage Demonstration

Nearly everybody who went to the convention from the eastern part of St. Louis journeyed by way of Washington street which two hours before was transformed into a golden lane. On either side of the broad avenue stood woman suffrage arrayed in yellow. They stood, or sat on stools they they will; a few feet apart, and did not utter a word to the passing throngs making their way to the convention hall. The golden lane stretched for twelve blocks from the hotel district to the Coliseum and the mute demonstration was expected by its originators to influence the delegates in the matter of a declaration for suffrage. The suffragists hope to have the convention adopt the plank proposed by Secretary of the Navy McDaniels, which favors a suffragist amendment to the federal constitution. The suffragists consider their cause should be greatly enhanced by having the secretary as an ally. They will make a big drive on the resolutions committee when it is appointed, and are confident that the Democratic convention will go farther than did the Republicans. Many speakers from the twelve suffrage states are in the city and many meetings will be held to advance the cause while the convention is in session.

Suffragists May Get Public Hearing

It is probable that a public hearing will be given, probably on Thursday to suffragists, labor leaders and others who have planks they desire inserted in the Democratic declaration of principles. Anti-Suffragists will also be given a hearing, it is said.

Secretary of War Baker, who arrived here last night from Washington with the planks drafted personally by President Wilson, will submit them to the resolutions committee when it is appointed. Mr. Baker has taken extra precautions to prevent the text of the planks in his custody from reach the public before submission to the committee. So cautious was he that on his way he took the papers from his traveling bag and kept them under the pillows in his berth while he slept.

FRAME UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING BILL FOR CONGRESS

Washington, June 14.—Details of a new universal military training and service bill to be presented to congress soon became known today. It provides that all male citizens shall enlist for six months' military camp training during the calendar year, in which they become eighteen years of age, and thereafter shall be discharged into the reserve.

In time of war these trained men might be called into active service by classes of years; the youngest first. The bill was drawn by Captain George Van Horn Moseley, of the general staff of the army, acting unofficially in behalf of national defense organizations.

The only exemptions from training under the proposed legislation would be young men, physically or otherwise unfit, and members of permanent military or naval forces. The president would be empowered to suspend the organization of any number of regular army units, and to assign their officers to effect economies. It is assumed, by permanent reduction of the standing army, without reducing the force available in case of war.

THE PRESIDENT HEADS GIGANTIC PREPAREDNESS PARADE IN WASHINGTON

Washington, June 14.—Led by President Wilson, carrying the stars and stripes, nearly seventy-five thousand men, women and children of Washington marched up broad Pennsylvania avenue today in a preparedness parade arranged to emphasize the national capital's demand for an adequate army and navy. Besides marching himself and then reviewing the parade, the president had prepared an address on "America First" to be delivered in the afternoon at an open air meeting south of the White House.

Washington was brilliantly decorated for the occasion. It was a holiday, for under an executive order issued by the president, all government employees were excused from work and many stores were closed. The celebration was planned in part as a response to a proclamation issued by the president calling upon people of the nation to celebrate Flag Day this year with special ceremonies.

The President Walks in Parade
President Wilson decided to set a precedent by walking on foot in the parade. Beginning at the peace monument, near the capitol, the marchers passed the post office and treasury department buildings and then reached the White House where a reviewing stand, draped with American flags, had been erected. There the program provided the president leave the head of the parade and enter the stand with the members of the executive committee. Arrangements were made to have Mrs. Wilson and members of the cabinet join him to watch the remainder of the line pass.

To control the crowds, including visitors from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond and other nearby cities, the Washington police force had called for aid from soldiers from Fort Myer, Va., and marines and sailors from the navy yard here. Street car service along Pennsylvania avenue was ordered suspended during the parade.

No regular military organizations were permitted to march because Secretaries Baker and Daniels thought it would be improper for professional soldiers or sailors to participate. The national guard of the District of Columbia and every other volunteer military body were assigned places in the line. American flags were distributed to every marcher just before the parade started.

Many Bands Contributed Music
Nearly every band in Washington and Baltimore has been pressed into service and it was necessary to have some of them march by the reviewing stand several times in order to lead different organizations. The United States Marine band was placed just ahead of the president.

The parade was under the direction of Lieutenant General S. B. M. Young, honorary grand marshal, and M. C. Hazen, grand marshal. It was divided into eleven divisions, one of which was designated for negro citizens and organizations.

By permission of the navy department the navy wireless station at Arlington, Virginia, had been used to invite all radio operators in Washington and vicinity to participate in the celebration and the responses resulted in a special section being set aside for them.

With most of the marchers parading sixteen abreast the committee in charge of the arrangements estimated that the last contingents would pass the reviewing stand late in the afternoon.

THE RUSSIANS CONTINUE THEIR ADVANCE NEAR BUKOWINA CAPITAL

London, June 14.—Reports from the Eastern front indicate that the Russians are making substantial progress in their efforts to capture Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina. A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd says the Russians have interrupted the Austrian communications by cutting the railway running north from Czernowitz. Heavy fighting is in progress in the eastern, southeastern and northern outskirts of the city.

He has learned that dog fennel roots when steeped with an equal quantity of millin leaves make an ointment that was guaranteed to remove all creaks from joints, and that it would iron out tired muscles and make them supple and elastic. "Buck" says it will not be his fault if his old soup bone is not in working order. Incidentally, let it be whispered to the Irving Drew players that "Buck" has develspall a hook like a hoop. The ball starts for a fellow's mean then does the hesitation and breaks like a clay pipe stem, curving over the heart of the plate with the gracefulness of a swallow. "Buck's" speed is terrific—don't laff, don't laff, for heaven's sake. The committee reports splendid progress relative to the parade that will form at The Times office corner. President Gableman, of the Portsmouth Chumps, says he will have his team all dolled out in freshly laundered uniforms, while Mauger Jones, of Mayville, reports his team will be dressed in their best bib and tucker and will walk side by side with the Cobblers. The players who will form the two teams for the Shoeworks are scannering around looking for "unies," last reports being that Walter Biltner of the Irving Drew Shoe Co. has not as yet found one with sufficient yardage to completely encase his 225 pounds.

Incidentally the members of the four brass bands who have donated their services for the auspicious occasion are anxious for the day to arrive. They are all going to play lively airs—no place for a funeral dirge on "Shoemakers' Day." "There will be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," "Johnny Comes Marching Home," and the "Morning After the Night Before"—these three classics will hold the boards. Yes, and Manager Fred Tynes, of the Columbia Theater, has practically decided to have motion pictures made of the parade as it marches up Chillicothe street, out. Gullin to Waller and up Waller to Ninth where the Street Railway Co. will have a dozen cars in waiting.

Let all shoeworkers, men and women, boys and girls, join in the parade and make it an historic event. Many banners are being printed and make no mistake that parade will not only be resplendent with the waving of Old Glory, but the banners in various hues will add a color scheme that will make a rainbow with its violet, indigo blue, green, yellow, orange and red look like a regular piker. The parade will move promptly at 1 o'clock, so be in line on time.

FLAG DAY

Today the nation pauses in its pursuit of industry to pay homage to the American flag. It is FLAG DAY. Now is the time of all times when the emblem of the United States is to be appreciated to its fullest extent. It is symbolic of peace and prosperity, at a time when the greater part of the world is torn by strife and human sacrifices and horrors. The stars and stripes represent Americanism itself. The flag is your flag. It is the constant guardian of your peace, happiness and prosperity. With true American spirit, salute it.

WHO MAKES THE NOMINATIONS?

It doesn't make any difference what I think, say or do, the "bosses" determine the candidates, and we "common people" simply go through the formality of voting for them.

That is a remark we hear and you hear very frequently, and with many the saying by mere repetition has acquired the force of absolute truth. Whether you are willing to accept this extreme view of matters political in these United States in this enlightened day and age, depends largely upon whether you are an optimist or a pessimist.

Viewed through the darkened glasses of the pessimist the conventions at Chicago and St. Louis assemble, go through all the motions of nomination, adjourn and return home, from start to finish guided by the invisible, but not less firm on that account, hands of the "Big Bosses." For all the common people have to do, with it they might as well be in the class of the fly, who while hanging on to the wheel of a huge speeding Packard touring car, cried out to a passing friend, "See what a h—l of a dust I am kicking up."

So much for the pessimist.

But the optimist has a vision far different. He sees himself, plain John Smith, working day in and day out, doing his bit in the scheme of life in an honest, honorable way, "looking the whole world in the face," and airing his views when and where he pleases. He sees himself saying "Hughes is the man," or "Wilson is the man," or "Roosevelt is the man," and sees his little audience listening and digesting his remarks. He sees the chance words he has spoken in the mouths of two or three of his friends, who have held similar views, but had not expressed them before, and then with keen interest sees them go on in a never ending chain.

He sees other "John Smiths" all over the country starting out these little "Personal Opinion Waves," and sees them travel hither and yon, as man goes about his work.

And then he sees the precinct party worker with his ear attuned to catch the whisper of the voter. He sees this precinct worker unconsciously influenced by the outspoken views of the "John Smiths."

In turn he sees the ward worker, the district leaders, the state leaders in the same manner being unconsciously turned to the thought that "This man or that" is the logical candidate, or will be most acceptable to the people, the most likely to gain the votes necessary to land himself and his party in power.

The optimist sees these ideas traveling on to the national leaders, and when they sit down in the "Councils of the Mighty" to make the final decision, they make their selection from the men whom the "John Smiths" away back yonder in the field and the factory have helped to surround with the mystic halo of "An accepted leader."

And finally when the nominations are made the optimist feels "I know I am only one of a hundred million, but I believe I had my share in shaping the currents of thought that resulted in the choosing of Hughes at Chicago or Wilson at St. Louis."

If we all took the views of the pessimist, that what we say or do makes no difference, don't you think in the end it would make a mighty lot of difference?

AEROPLANE AND AUTO TIME-KILLERS

The railroads and the telegraph and telephone wires are not the only agencies which are subjugating the continent and making it tributary to man's business and pleasures.

The new automobile record, which makes the cross-country time a matter of seven days and eleven hours and fifty-three minutes, tells another story of man's indifference to its barriers, while the proposed Aerial Derby, set for next September, will further render its vast distances of no avail, save as an example of the ease of conquest. To cover 3,741 miles in a little more than a week is not only a record of intrepid human endurance, but of the superiority of mechanical equipment of which all concerned may well be proud, even if the severity of the test shall be due in part to the badness of American highways representing American inefficiency at its very worst.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Reflections of the prosperity enjoyed by Scioto county can be seen in the returns of the tax assessors, which have recently been turned over to the board of revision. County Auditor S. D. Eckert says that there will be a substantial gain in both real and personal property for this year. Last year, the total tax duplicate for the county was $56,323,660.

Some men will be so busy from now on until November saving the country by helping to elect Hughes or Wilson that they will forget such little trifles as making a living for their wives and children.

OLD GLORY'S BIRTHDAY

WANTS TO KEEP "LINE" ON CRIMINALS

Over seventy-five per cent of the criminals arraigned and convicted in the local courts are non-residents, says Prosecuting Attorney Joseph T. Micklethwait. With this fact in mind, he is now urging that measures be taken by the officials of the towns and cities along the Ohio river between Portsmouth and Huntington, W. Va., to eliminate the "dumping" habit. If the crime or misdemeanor is light and the prisoner is sentenced to a term in the jails, on being released, he is taken to the city limits and given a positive injunction never to return. By this act, the officials are sending a perhaps dangerous man from a district with ample police protection out into the country where little or no protection is afforded or to a neighboring city where he may operate with safety until apprehended.

The Prosecutor believes some understanding could be reached by the authorities of the various cities in this district whereby a line could be kept on the undesirables, and crime materially lessened. The idea seems well worth trying.

Our esteemed sister city of Akron will please take notice that the London Times refers to a recent accident in which a number of people lost their lives in the collapse of a restaurant building, as happening in "Akron, New York State." Such is fame.

A man never knows how worthless and "no account" generally he is until he tries to hang a screen door and it fails to work at the first trial to the complete satisfaction of his helpmate.

Now is the time to cut those weeds. Then keep them cut.

As the mercury gradually climbs toward the "ninety in the shade" point, the Tired Business Man brushes the dust off of bundles of literature which delineate the advantages of this resort or that bathing beach and diligently plans his vacation. This year, according to local railway officials, most of the vacationists will go East.

Some are wondering why some progressive newspaper did not engage the fearless "Teddy" to furnish graphic accounts of the Democratic National Convention from day to day.

Things are moving so fast nowadays that people who say it can't be done are being interrupted by some one doing it.

The most we can get out of it is that Italy would have fared better had she hesitated longer.

After all is said and done there is nothing that will sober you down like a question of win or lose.

Everyday Wisdom

SOAP
We always call for round soap. That's all we know about soap. Some of it is round and some of it is square. Some of it floats and some of it sinks. We don't know which. Yesterday we came home with some new soap, and found it was mint flavored. It said so, it said so, audibly. And the word "MINT" was carved on the side of the soap. We know it was mint flavored.

Mint soap!
At what affection will the world not stoop!
Are we going to have to begin to choose our soap like we do our sodas? Is soap going to force itself into our lives?

We don't want to give any thought to soap. We just want to buy a ten-cent cake unconsciously and come home and take a bath—privately.

Banana soap. Pineapple soap. Chocolate soap. Strawberry soap. Vanilla soap with nuts on it.

And next, they will be offering soap that not only floats, but floats in circles. Soap that floats in square circles. Soap that does the one-stop. Who is becoming complacent and complacent. Now we have got to wake up and become conscious of soap. Not only conscious, but careful.

The Wood-Rats Decide To Explore

"ALL THE SAME, Mrs. Willy Wood-rat," said Willy when she started to tease him for being frightened by the bat coming out of the old hollow sycamore tree, "you were frightened too. And you ran down that tree trunk to the ground every bit as fast as I did, so there!"

Mrs. Willy laughed and admitted that he was right, and of course that restored Willy's good humor at once. Nobody likes to be the only one who is afraid, you know.

"Well, then, let's not mind, seeing we both were frightened the same way," suggested Willy comfortably. "Let's talk about what we'll do now."

"Why talk about it?" asked Mrs. Willy. "Why not just go up there now?"

"Go up where?" asked Willy. "To the sycamore tree," replied Mrs. Willy, surprised that Willy should ask.

"But the bat!" began Willy. "Fother the bat!" laughed Mrs. Willy. "Didn't you see that the bat flew away? I think there is something wonderful in that hollow. Let's go now while the bats are both gone and explore."

Willy looked at her admiringly. "You're brave as I am," he said, as though that was the greatest possible praise.

Mrs. Willy only squeaked. She had her own opinion as to Willy's bravery!

"Then let's go," she said. And without waiting to see if Willy followed her she slipped over to the hollow sycamore tree and began climbing its white trunk.

Willy followed close at her heels. Up and up they went till they came again to the hollow from which the bat had darted out only a few minutes before.

Willy hesitated to go into the hole, but Mrs. Willy bravely ran straight in. She was not as clever as Willy about making plans, but once a plan was started she never was afraid of carrying it out.

This time no bat disturbed them and the two little wood-rats explored the hollow from top to bottom. "Have you found anything?" squeaked Willy after he had hunted in silence for some time.

She slipped over to the sycamore tree and began climbing its white trunk.

"Not a thing," replied Mrs. Willy. "What have you got?"

"Nothing!" said Willy in disgust. "There's nothing here to find!"

"Sorely there must be," said Mrs. Willy, who never wanted to give up a plan. So they hunted up and down the hollow again—this time most carefully. But not a thing—not a single goody did they find—not one!

"I don't think much of bats," said Willy. "Let's go home."

"Stupid creatures! They never lay up food for us to play with," added Mrs. Willy, and two much-tooled wood-rats slowly and silently climbed down to earth.

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY

BY O.O. MCINTYRE.

New York, June 14—Bonnie Glass, the dancer, has danced her way into the center of ten million exquisite dollars, which even in the days of war stock bubbles is considered considerable. Bonnie at one time was very much interested in Al Davis, who married Eugenia Kelley.

But when Davis married she did not mope around. She went merrily on her way and now she is the bride of Don Ali Huggin, the artist, who recently came into a fortune of $10,000,000. He has built a castle at Roslyn, L. I. for her and they will live there.

Bonnie Glass in real life is Miss Helen Roche. She has appeared on the stage and the cabarets and is well known to the Broadway set. Huggin is the grandson of James B. Huggin, the famous turkman. He is divorced and he once got into a dispute with Charles Dana Gibson over his first wife.

It was at the time the "Gibson Girl" became popular. Mr. Gibson declared the real Gibson girl was his wife and was the most beautiful girl in the world. Mr. Huggin modestly disputed his claim and said that Mrs. Huggin was the most beautiful girl in the world, but in the meantime a big murder trial came along and the newspapers dropped the dispute.

At Jolson has a new song he calls "You're a Dangerous Girl," which was written on a bet with Jimmy Monaco and Grant Clark. They were seated in the Claridge recently and Jolson complained that no person had been able to write a song that suited him.

Monaco and Clark declared that they could do it just like that. A wager of $100 was made. So in two weeks the song was delivered, all wrapped up and tied in a pink baby ribbon. Jolson tried it over once and the next night he was singing it at the Winter Garden and the next day the song writers got their check.

Here is a part of it. Try it on your piano!

"I love your eyes, I'm fond of your kissing, But my heart cries, 'Stop, look and listen.' You're wonderful, just marvelous, But you're a dog-goned, dangerous girl."

It might be said without the least fear of contradiction that the season is open at Coney Island. Two have been shot in a gang row on Surf avenue. This is the avenue that is selected by the gangsters to hold their little shooting affairs.

The selection is possibly made because the avenue is always crowded with innocent little children who may stop the bullets. For years the gang shootings at Coney have been a public scandal. The ring-leaders always get away.

When "Lena the Lump" was terrorizing puccable merchants on the East Side and luring the speculators to Coney to shoot them up, the police always promised that he would be caught. He was finally and sent up the river to do his bit, but his followers remain on the job and break out just as much as usual.

An opium parlor over on Seventh Avenue was opened last week amid great splendor. The bunks were silk-lined and the attendants wore the finest silver and gold dragon robes that money could buy. It was supposed to be the last word in opium parlors, but it didn't last long. In fact it was only running 24 hours when the Narcotic Squad swooped down upon it.

The police, through a "steal pizoon," had known all the time the place was going to open, but they desired to catch them with the goods and succeeded. Three beautiful young girls were in the place, lulled to stupefaction by the process known as "hitting the pipe."

They said it was their first experience, but the police knew better. Also there was a man found in the place who was a few years back a well-known writer.

The Now

Put hand to the work of today. With passion of joy and will, Tomorrow is as far away As a star above a hill.

Though the torrent to cross is wide And often steep in its flow, On the farther other side The lilies and roses grow. Though the mountain is hard to climb And rises bold from its base Into the clear sublime— Its top for repose has place.

If the zeal for your work endures Your journey must upward be If the land is no longer yours What matter!—accept the sea.

Your life is the life of your soul, And your soul shall never die. The now is your only goal— You cannot the now deny.

A Large Fraternity

"Yes," said the principal of the young ladies' seminary to the proud parent, "you ought to be very happy, my dear sir, to be the father of so large a family, all the members of which appear to be so devoted to one another."

"Large family! Devoted!" gasped the old gentleman, in amazement. "What on earth do you mean, ma'am?"

"Why, yes, indeed," said the principal, beaming through her glasses. "No fewer than eleven of Edith's brothers have been here, this term to take her out, and she tells me she expects the tall one with the blue eyes again tomorrow."

Polite But Firm

Mrs. N. was giving instructions to her new servant: "Before removing the soup plate, Mary, always ask each person if he or she would like anymore."

"Very good, madam."

Next day Mary, respectfully bowing to one of the guests, inquired: "Would the gentleman like some more soup?"

"Yes, please."

Fifty Would Be Enough

A clothing manufacturer received a call from a city salesman representing a notions, trimming and button house. The visitor began to spread out his samples.

"Put 'em up! Put 'em up!" said the manufacturer, in a tired business man tone. "I wouldn't care to look at nothing what you got."

"But, Mr. Cohen—"

"Shing! I won't look! Please go away!"

The salesman gazed at him admiringly.

"Mr. Cohen," he said, "I only wish one thing—I wish I had fifty customers like you."

"I told you I didn't wish to see nothing what you got."

"Sure you did; and that's why I said I wish I had only fifty customers like you. Instead I've got two hundred!"—Saturday Evening Post.

TAKE OFF YOUR HAT TO YOUR NATION'S FLAG TODAY

Conceived in the early days of the revolution, when the destiny of a new-born nation was being sorely tried by the fires of war, as emblematic of the high ideals and noble purposes of a people, the American flag today stands a living monument, unguilted by the ravages of time, to those who ordained and established it. It was designed by Betty Ross, flaunted before the world by Captain John Paul Jones and established in the constellation of world flags by the blood of heroic thousands. Today its protecting folds cover one hundred million souls, who constitute one of the most powerful nations in the world. Today is "Flag Day" and it will be observed by all throughout the several states of the union. The stars and stripes will be generously displayed to commemorate its founding and to teach the rising generation the urgent need of preserving its integrity unimpaired for posterity.

DURHAM IN CELL, DENIES STEP-CHILD'S CHARGE

Police Chief Henry Clark on Wednesday resumed his investigation of the story reluctantly told to him Tuesday by 17-year-old Nora Morgan, which prompted him to charge her stepfather, A. M. Durham, an ex-preacher, of Earlytown, with criminally assaulting her.

Durham will be given a preliminary hearing before Mayor H. H. Kaps Thursday morning at nine o'clock. He has retained Attorney Nate B. Gilliland to defend him. Durham stoutly maintains his innocence. He had learned of the girl's accusations against him and branded them as false. He displayed considerable concern about her Wednesday morning when he anxiously inquired about her condition. "I don't want such testimony against me while I'm locked up in here, for I'm an innocent man," said he.

Durham felt it would be to his interest to have the girl examined. He was eager for an opportunity to see her. All day Tuesday he wanted his wife summoned, saying he wished to talk to her, but his requests were ignored. Early Wednesday he made his request for counsel, naming Mr. Gilliland and that attorney was promptly notified. Durham is spending much of his time in prison exhorting his cell room mates.

The Morgan girl, who the police say, is a bright and attractive child, was able Tuesday evening to leave the home of Hollie P. Harris and family at No. 2338 Ninth street, where she had sought refuge early that morning. The girl was said to have been struck a hard blow in the side and when a woman at the Harris home felt the place, the girl gave a cry of pain and collapsed. She remained unconscious for some time later.

Another Deputy Sheriff Is Killed By Negro Gunman

Charleston, W. Va., June 14.—Henry Vior, deputy sheriff of Kanawha county, who was located at Ronda, on Cabin Creek, was shot and killed yesterday by an unknown negro whom he attempted to place under arrest. The negro made his escape.

The shooting occurred when a freight train pulled up to the station at Ronda, about two miles from the mouth of Cabin Creek. Three negroes were on the train and Vior told them to come down from the top of a box car. Two of the men climbed to the ground, but the third challenged Vior to get him. The officer stepped on the stirrup of the car and was in the act of climbing to the top when the negro drew a revolver and fired a single shot which took effect in Vior's body about two inches below the heart.

Two members of the train crew rushed to the aid of the wounded man and all three of the negroes escaped into the woods.

Vior was able to walk with the assistance of the other men, to a nearby house, where he died shortly after his arrival. Sheriff Hill was notified and went immediately to the scene of the tragedy. A posse was formed and a search for the murderer began, but he has not been captured.

Vior is a widower and is survived by two small children. He was 35 years old and well known in this city, as well as being one of the best known members of Sheriff Hill's staff of deputies. His home was at Ronda, where the funeral will be held.

OBITUARY

Paul Charles Schirrmann

After a two weeks' illness with spinal meningitis, death, at 5:30 Tuesday afternoon, claimed Paul Charles Schirrmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Schirrmann, of 1412 Gallia street. The boy's death occurred at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Cook, of 1548 Fifth street, where the boy was moved when it was learned that he was afflicted with the dread disease. For several days he showed signs of improvement, but he underwent a change for the worse Sunday and since that time his condition had been extremely grave.

It was two weeks ago last Saturday that the deceased began to complain that he was not feeling well. He had never been sick a day in his life, and he, as well as his parents, thought he would soon be feeling better. But he grew worse and on Decoration Day, a physician was summoned. It was then that it was learned that the boy was suffering with spinal meningitis, but it was thought to be a light case. Mrs. Schirrmann accompanied her son to the home of her parents and nursed him with the tender care of a mother almost day and night. When the victim became much worse Monday, Mr. Schirrmann left his business and also went to the Cook home, to be at the bedside of his boy. The boy passed away at 5:30 last night with relatives at his bedside, in spite of the fact that loving hands and expert medical aid had done all that could be done to stay the hand of death.

Paul Charles Schirrmann was born February 16, 1900. He would have been a junior in the Portsmouth High School this fall, had not death intercepted his bright career. In addition to his broken-hearted parents he leaves one sister, Emma, one brother, Harold, a member of this year's P. H. S. graduating class, and many other relatives and friends.

Paul was an exceedingly bright and studious boy and his death will be learned with genuine sorrow. He was a manly little fellow and liked by all who knew him. The funeral services will be conducted from the Cook home at 3:30 this afternoon. Rev. B. B. Cartwright officiating. Interment will be in Greenlawn.

The body will be placed near a window in the Cook home, and those who wish to look for the last time upon the features of this lovely youth may do so.

Alleged Brass Thieves Flee In Buggy; Suspect Is Arrested

John Myers, an East End young man, was arrested by Detectives Bob Reno and Andy Leslie late Tuesday night as a suspect in the brass stealing that occurred at the N. & W. Terminals last Saturday afternoon. Myers was taken before Louis Azar, a junk dealer, of No. 733 Third street, to whom two young men in a buggy had prepared to sell him as one of the two men he and the brass, but who drove on at the sight of officers approaching and escaped after abandoning a horse and buggy. Mr. Azar promptly said he looked like one of the men.

Officer Joe Stedley, as soon as he got a glimpse of Myers early Wednesday morning, positively identified him as one of the two men he and the brass, but who drove on at the sight of officers approaching and escaped after abandoning a horse and buggy. Mr. Azar promptly said he looked like one of the men.

LULL IN FIGHTING ON VERDUN FRONT; GERMAN LOSSES HEAVY SAY FRENCH

Paris, June 14.—The fighting around Verdun has once more died down from sheer exhaustion of combatants.

An entire division, half of whom were Bavarians and half Pomeranians, was used up by the Germans in 12 separate attempts Monday to storm the French positions north of Thiaumont. From this position the French flanking fire prevents the enemy from advancing on Vaux plateau. No result having been attained by night fall, fresh troops were brought up and an attempt made to turn the position from the southwest. After a desperate struggle, a footing was obtained in some of the trenches on Hill Number 321, half a mile west of Thiaumont and a mile east of Bras.

No effort was made to increase this advantage yesterday, owing probably to the losses on Monday, which, according to the prisoners, were exceptionally heavy. A man belonging to the Sixteenth Bavarian Infantry stated that his regiment had been held in reserve for a big offensive against the last forts of Verdun, but that it had been thrown in to support the troops attacking Thiaumont and had lost nearly a third of its effectives.

CARRANZA ANSWER TO BE DELAYED UNTIL AFTER THE CONVENTION

Washington, D. C., June 14.—The United States' answer to the last note from General Carranza probably will not be made until after the St. Louis convention ends this week, it was learned in administration circles today. The delay was considered advisable to eliminate chance that any action toward Mexico at this time might be interpreted, as prompted by political influences.

That course has been laid particularly in view of Carranza's strong intimations that the United States' dealings with Mexico have been determined by questions of internal politics in this country. The answer Secretary Lansing is preparing will rebuke General Carranza sharply for that insinuation, it is said. Administration officials are still visibly worried over the possibility of serious Anti-American outbreaks in Mexico, but they are determined not to take the initiative in any aggression.

POP POPS WHEN DRAY IS SUDDENLY UPSET

Several hundred bottles of pop were suddenly hurled to the sidewalk on Third street, in front of the Albert Zoellner jewelry store Wednesday, at eight o'clock, when a horse belonging to the E. J. Kenrick company shied and upset a dray loaded with cases of pop. Before Henry Albrecht, the driver, could stop the horse, the wagon toppled over, precipitating the load upon the sidewalk with a resounding crash. Mr. Albrecht says that the wagon toppled when the horse turned sideways, cramping the front wheels. The broken bottles were packed in the wooden cases and placed on the dray and hauled back to the factory.

Extra! "Lemo" Stand Robbed

Harold Riggles, a Fifth street boy, reported to the police Tuesday afternoon that while he was counting up the proceeds of his lemonade stand, a boy answering to the name of Lester Davis, of Third street, grabbed fifty cents from his hands, then "look to his heels." Sergeant John Smith promised to investigate.

AGED WOMAN ON VISIT DROPS DEAD IN A CHAIR

The pleasure relatives had derived by a visit from Mrs. Julia Fe Wells-Robbitt, aged 79 years, of Haverhill, changed to grief and sorrow when she fell over dead at the home of her grandson, Walter Hannah, of 1413 Findlay street, Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Robbitt had finished eating breakfast and was sitting in a chair talking pleasantly to members of the household when suddenly she was stricken. A physician responded to a hurry call but she expired before he could reach the home.

Mrs. Robbitt had come to Portsmouth a week ago to visit her son-in-law, J. L. Hanna, a widower, of Twelfth street and her grand children, Mrs. Lulu Grey, C. W. K. Hannah, real estate man, C. M. Hannah, railway mail clerk, J. E. and W. H. Hannah, contractors. She had been in bad health, suffering with heart trouble for the past several years.

Mrs. Robbitt was the widow of the late Elias H. Robbitt, who died ten years ago. She is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Anne Lockwood and William Robbitt, of Buchanan, Ky.; James Robbitt, of East Liverpool, O.; and Mrs. Mary Brown, of Haverhill. She also leaves an only brother, Stephen Wells, of this city. Mrs. Robbitt was a member of the Baptist church. Her remains will be buried beside those of her husband in the Mt. Zion, Ky. cemetery.

Will Mail 25,000 Post Cards Advertising Korn Karnival

One of the big forecasts of the greater 1916 Korn Karnival this year will be Post Card Day, which proved to be such a grand success last year. Twenty-five thousand cards have been contracted for by Chairman Ben G. Harris, of the post card committee. These will arrive in the city August 1.

This year Post Card Day will be held sometime during the first week in September. On this day every citizen will be asked to purchase one or more of the beautiful views and mail them to their friends who live in other cities or communities.

The views delineated upon the cards are some of those taken by Mr. Harris of the principal features of the 1915 Korn Karnival. They will be highly colored, to bring out the picturesque effects of the striking color schemes employed.

The first view portrays the human flag which so proudly led the school children's parade last year. This living emblem was composed of over four hundred little children dressed so that their even ranks formed an American banner.

Other views represents the high school student body, marching in the van of the children's parade. Some of the unique floats which featured the big Farmers' parade are pictured in another view.

A splendid picture of the two mile dinner, showing the long lines of diners on Washington street forms the fourth view of the group. Then lastly is the picture of the
